Amid full-blown freedom of speech spat with Twitter, govt begins Kooing

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

CAUGHT in the eye of a political storm over the ongoing farmer protests, US social media giant Twitter on Wednesday said it had suspended more than 500 of the 1,178 accounts the ministry of electronics and information technology ordered it to remove citing the possibility of inciting violence and threat to national security.

However, the site took a dig at the government saying the others were not suspended as the blocking orders were not consistent with Indian law. "Keeping with our principles of defending protected speech and freedom of expression, we have not taken any action on accounts that consist of news media entities, journalists, activists, and politicians. To do so, we believe, would violate their fundamental right to free expression under Indian law," Twitter said.

The ministry termed Twitter's statement as 'unusual', posting its response first on a rival platform, Koo, which garnered more than three million downloads in two days.

"Upon the request of Twitter seeking a meeting with the government, the Secretary IT was to engage with senior management of Twitter. In this light a blog post published prior to this engagement is unusual. The government will share its response soon," Meity said in a statement.

Fully Indian firm

Aprameya R, the co-founder and CEO of Koo, said it is an India registered firm backed by investors like 3one4 capital. A Chinese investor, Shunwei, is also a shareholder, but will exit fully

The Centre had last week warned Twitter of legal action under Section 69(A) of the Information Technology Act, which provides for imprisonment up to seven years besides a penalty, if it fails to take down the 1,178 accounts.

Legal experts told TNIE that Twitter may have very few options since it has only partly complied with the government orders, while free speech activists denounced the government's crackdown on social media by using 'legal weapons'.

India remains a key market for the social media giant with more than 75 million active users, including Prime Minister Narendra Modi who has a 65.5 million strong user base with his key cabinet colleagues as well as government departments active on the site.

Industries and Commerce minister Piyush Goyal, IT minister Ravi Shankar Prasad, BJP spokesperson Sambit Patra and Bollywood actress Kangana Ranaut were amongst those who shifted to the 'desi' rival Koo, which also onboarded key government departments on Wednesday.

Shed status quo mindset and let new laws help empower small farmers, urges PM

Ready for talks, says Modi while backing reforms

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

NOBODY had asked for the triple talaq or dowry laws, but they were still enacted, for reforms must be attuned with changing times, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Wednesday as he rebutted the Opposition's charge that farmers had not sought the contentious agri reform laws.

Wrapping up the Lok Sabha debate on the Motion of Thanks to the President's address, Modi reiterated his government's willingness to resume talks while describing the laws as progressive.

"Besides creating an additional, but optional, avenue has there been any change after the enactment of the laws? When the laws offer only an option, there can't be any reason for protest," he reasoned.

Conceding that 100% acceptance to any new measure was not possible, Modi, however, said progress could not be gained without shedding the status quo mindset.

Recalling the late farmer leader Chaudhary Charan Singh's words on farm fragmentation, he said: "We cannot progress if we do not care for small farmers, who constitute 80% of the farming community. Fragmentation is a reality, and this is what the farmers' producers organisations aim to address."

"A new world order is in the making in the post-Corona era, and we have to choose between being a mute spectator and making reforms. An Atmanirbhar Bharat will play a crucial role in the new world order," the prime minister asserted.

When Congress members began disrupting his speech, Modi took potshots at them, saying it was divided and confused. "The party has different stands in Rajya Sabha and Lok Sabha. It can neither work for its own good nor solve the country's challenges," he said even as Congress and TMC members staged a walk-out.

He also made a distinction between andolankari (protesters)and andolan jivi (professional protesters), saying the former is pious while the latter is an anarchist. The kisan andolan is pious, he said. P10

Rescue operations continue at Tapovan Tunnel in Joshimath on Thursday | SHEKHAR YADAV

SEARCH SUFFERS FOR WANT OF LAYOUT; DIRECTION CHANGED

VINEET UPADHYAY
@ Tapovan (Uttarakhand)

IT'S not just the topography that has made the rescue of 37 workers stuck in the Tapovan tunnel following flash floods on Sunday, difficult. "For the first two days, we were blind," said a rescue official as they did not have the layout of the tunnels they were negotiating with. The layout was shared only on Tuesday and a course correction was ordered the next day.

Till Wednesday, the assumption was 37 workers were trapped at a point 180 metres deep into the Tapovan tunnel at a bend, which was why sludge was cleared up to 130 metres and beyond. The plan changed to start drilling the ground at 70-75 metres inside the tunnel to reach a silt filtration tunnel there, as officials now think the workers could be trapped there. The decision was taken at a meeting of state officials, the Armed Forces and the NTPC.

Confirming the change, R Raman, commissioner of Garhwal division, told TNIE, "Information is constantly emerging and developing because everything is based on anticipation on the basis of the tunnel's layout. Today we found that the sludge is pushing back from the tunnel. A consensus was reached to look for the workers in silt filtration tunnel below the tunnel."

Why the Hyderabad-based tunnel developer, Rithwik Projects Pvt Ltd, took this long to share the layout when network connectivity was available and the company's officers were very much on site boggles the mind. P9

Four BDA engineers arrested

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

FOUR engineers of the Bengaluru Development Authority, including an Assistant Engineer (AE) who was to retire this month, were arrested by the Seshadripuram police on Tuesday night for malpractices in the allotment of sites.

They allegedly connived with agents as well as BDA's Revenue Department to create false documents to allot sites, said highly-placed BDA sources.

Ten more BDA employees are likely to be arrested in the case soon, the sources added.

All the arrested were working at the BDA North office at R T Nagar when they created false Correct Dimension (CD) reports. They are three AEs -- M S Shankar Murthy (who was transferred to BBMP two months ago), K N Ravikumar and Shabir Ahmed, and D Sriram, an Assistant Executive Engineer. Ahmed was to retire by February-end.

The CD report gives all details on the dimension of the site, its location and surroundings and is a crucial document in site allotment, an official said. The arrested officials created fake CDs for sites measuring 20x30 sqft and 20x40 sqft. Sriram and Ahmed have each created 14 such reports, while Murthy seven and Ravikumar five.

Surprise disengagement at LAC as China, India pull back vehicles

MAYANK SINGH AND PUSHKAR BANAKAR @ New Delhi

AFTER a nine-month-long stand-off along the Line of Actual Control in Eastern Ladakh, the situation appeared to ease a tad on Wednesday as both China and India began a "synchronized and organised" disengagement process.

While Indian sources said it was limited to armoured vehicles, the Chinese Ministry of National Defence claimed that the frontline troops from both sides along the Pangong Tso had started disengaging.

Senior Colonel Wu Qian, spokesperson for the Chinese Ministry of National Defence, said: "The Chinese and Indian frontline troops at the southern and northern banks of the Pangong Tso started synchronized and organised disengagement from February 10." It was in accordance with the consensus at the ninth round of China-India Corps Commander level meeting, he added.

From the Indian side, a senior Army officer confirmed the pullback of armoured vehicles, including infantry combat vehicles. "The armoured vehicles are moving back but troops at the frontline have not been thinned," he said.

The disengagement is expected to happen in phases, another senior officer said. "The infantry moving back will be the last step; it will depend on compliance of the phased disengagement from the Chinese side," the officer said.

The disengagement began on a day when the Chinese Ambassador to India, Sun Weidong, in an article said that the two countries should meet each other half way in addressing problems while putting the boundary issue in an appropriate place in bilateral ties.

New sand policy to aid end-users: Nirani

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

To ensure end-users get sand at a nominal price and without hassles, the Karnataka Government will soon come out with a new sand policy, Mines and Geology Minister Murugesh Nirani announced here on Wednesday.

The government is taking a number of measures to streamline the system and the new policy will ensure uniform prices for sand transportation in gram panchayat limits. The department has fixed ₹300/tonne for extracting sand from gorge, streams and reserves for construction of houses under government schemes and other construction activities at gram panchayat level. "Only 183 blocks are allowed across Karnataka. Cess will be levied on tipper, lorry and other vehicles transporting sand and no charges for transporting sand in bullock carts and two-wheelers. Transportation of sand from one district to another will not be allowed and must be transported within jurisdictional limits. However, permits will be needed to transport sand for commercial purposes and from one district to another," he said. P4

Dubai passenger flies in with 4 drones, caught

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

WHILE the government has been droning on for some time about the dangers of "uncontrolled civilians" flying drones, there is a black market thriving for these unmanned aerial vehicles. Though the government has put a long list of restrictions for enthusiasts and professionals using drones, the market is growing at a whopping 40 per cent per year, according to some estimates.

In the latest incident, a passenger from Dubai flew in with four China-made drones and landed straight in the net of Customs officials at the Kempegowda International Airport early on Wednesday morning.

The 25-year-old passenger also had four latest iPhones in his check-in baggage and 1.3 kg of gold in paste in his rectum and socks. The total value of the items seized was ₹75,12,181.

The customs officials caught him at 3 am after he alighted from the Emirates flight (EK-568). "It is a rare seizure. Forget four, we don't even allow one drone per passenger," said a senior customs official.

City shivers, Feb 9 coldest night so far this year

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE night of February 9 would be recorded as the coldest night so far this year in most parts of Karnataka as many districts reported a drastic dip in the mercury levels.

It was hovering between 15-16 degrees Celsius in January and the first week of this month. While Bidar recorded 9 degrees Celsius, Vijayapura 11.5, Hassan 10.5 and Mysuru 12.4 degrees Celsius.

According to the India Meteorological Department (IMD), Bengaluru City recorded a minimum temperature of 14.4 degrees Celsius on February 9, up to 8.30 am on February 10. This is three degrees below normal and a degree lower than what was forecast by the weather department.

That is not all, HAL airport recorded a minimum of 12.2 degrees Celsius and GKVK a minimum of 11 degrees Celsius. IMD officials said this was the lowest this year for Bengaluru, because in January, the lowest of 15.4 degrees Celsius was recorded on 26th.

This is, however, not the coldest ever, as on February 6, 1884, the City had recorded 9.4 degrees Celsius.

The IMD has forecast that the minimum temperature will continue to be around 14 degrees Celsius for the next two-three days and the maximum temperature will be around 28-30 degrees Celsius.

IMD- Bengaluru Director in- charge Geeta Agnihotri said the temperature has seen a drastic dip because there is an absolutely clear sky and there is no wind. She said the forecast was issued of a minimum of 15 degrees Celsius, but the temperatures are much lower.

C S Patil, also IMD- Bengaluru Director in-charge, said that there is very less moisture in the air.

"There is absolutely no humidity, all the factors contributing to a drop in temperature are present, leading to a drop in mercury level," he added.

Get ready to pay for parking now

Parking Policy 2.0 to boost public transport

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka government has approved Parking Policy 2.0 for Bengaluru, to put in place a stringent but well-organised parking system across the city that would discourage use of private vehicles and prefer public transport.

Parking Policy 2.0 will aim to move from the present chaotic parking to organised system; from free parking to paid parking; from government-driven parking to public-private partnership or market-driven parking supply and management; and from weak enforcement of parking regulations to active management of demand.

The Department of Urban Land Transport will prepare the area parking plans for all BBMP zones, and will be stringently implemented by the civic body, according to an order issued by the Urban Development Department.

The BBMP had adopted a parking policy for Bengaluru in 2012, but ever since, there have been several changes in demand due to the Metro, aggregator-run taxi systems, increasing popularity of micro-mobility options like shared cycles and bikes for last-mile connectivity, state government's proposal to transform arterial corridors into high-density corridors for seamless mobility, conversion of residential plots to commercial land use without due enforcement of parking requirements as per by-laws, infringement of residential roads by vehicles accessing nearby commercial areas, increasing vehicular population.

With growth in vehicle population outstripping growth of space for parking, there is a need to adopt a parking policy that lays down a clear path for parking management. This would not only discourage the use of personal vehicles, but also shift street-side parking to ease up road space.

A need was also felt to align with the Comprehensive Master Plan and draft Revised Master Plan 2031. Currently, public transport caters to just about 40 per cent of the trips in Bengaluru, while the RMP 2031 envisages it to be up to 70 per cent to avoid traffic gridlock.

Covid closure had big learning impact on primary school students: Study

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@Bengaluru

THE prolonged closure of schools due to Covid has had a significant negative impact on the learning levels of children. The loss in learning is both in terms of curriculum they would have learnt had the schools remained open and the lessons forgotten from previous years, reveals an extensive study — 'Loss of Learning during the Pandemic' — by Azim Premji University.

The study covered 16,067 primary school children across five states and found that on an average, 92 per cent of children have lost at least one specific language ability from the previous year across all classes. These abilities include describing a picture or their experiences orally, reading familiar words, reading with comprehension and writing simple sentences based on a picture.

The study which was held in 44 districts of Chhattisgarh, Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan and Uttarakhand revealed that 92 per cent of children in class 2, 89 per cent in class 3, 90 per cent in class 4, 95 per cent in Class 5 and 93 per cent in Class 6 have lost this ability.

Learning loss in maths

On an average, 82% of children have lost at least one specific mathematical ability from the previous year across all classes. These abilities include identifying single- and two-digit numbers, performing arithmetic operations, using basic arithmetic operations for solving problems, describing 2D/3D shapes and reading and drawing inferences from data. 67% of children in class 2, 76% in class 3, 85% in class 4, 89% in class 5, and 89% in class 6 have lost at least one specific ability.

The report emphasises that the extent and nature of learning loss is serious enough to warrant action at all levels. Supplemental support, whether as bridge courses, extended hours, community-based engagements and appropriate curricular materials, will be needed to help children gain the foundational abilities when they return to school.

The baseline assessment of children's learning levels (when schools closed in March 2020) was done based on a comprehensive analysis by relevant teachers. 'End-line' assessment of the same children's proficiency in January 2021 was done by administering oral and written tests.

Schools plan to protest against fee reduction

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@Bengaluru

THE 30 per cent reduction in tuition fee has created a deadlock between the government and private school managements, which are planning to protest, should the order stay.

The Associated Managements of English Medium Schools in Karnataka, Management of Independent CBSE Schools Association Karnataka, Karnataka Unaided School Management Association, other state board and board management associations, at a meeting on Wednesday, decided to protest against the government's fee cut order and other circulars that they claim are bringing them to the brink of closure.

MLC Puttanna said that he will sit on a dharna in front of education minister's office indefinitely if the order is not withdrawn. Rural schools, represented by the Recognised Unaided Private schools Association, have however decided to keep away from the protest.

Primary and Secondary Education Minister S Suresh Kumar said on Wednesday that the fee reduction is to protect the rights of students.

"As many parents were struggling to pay fees due to the pandemic, the government decided to reduce the tuition fees. The decision was discussed with the stakeholders several times. It was welcomed by many schools, but condemned by a few," he said, and claimed that after the announcement, parents have come forward to pay the fees.

But Shashi Kumar, General Secretary, KAMS said that even after fee reduction, not a single parent has come forward to pay fees and sought reversal of the order.

Need to stress on quality in higher edu, says Santhosh

ENS @Bengaluru

BJP National General Secretary B L Santhosh said on Wednesday that while there were rules for higher educational institutions, there was no guiding light and there were no mentoring hands to set them on the path of educational excellence.

He said with the country poised for a paradigm shift in the education system, one of the things required for higher educational institutes was quality. Experiments keep happening in the education sector and the biggest duty when making the rules is to ensure creativity in an ordinary person does not get killed, he added.

He was speaking at the launch of the Quality Management System in Higher Education, a publication by National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC). He said this book fills up that vacuum.

He said the manual of 14 chapters touches upon the nitty-gritty of achieving higher standards in higher education, which is most required as far as India is concerned.

Prof S C Sharma, Director, NAAC, said, "We are at crossroads in the field of higher education. The manual comprises seven criteria for higher educational institutions."

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

11th February : The best planetary aspect is Neptune's imaginative relationship with expansive Jupiter. This means that we may all be pushing as hard as we can to put our romantic plans into effect. It's an amazing moment and the sky is the limit, although any reasonable astrologer would advise great caution.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Socially, today's stars could not be more fun. However, if I could contradict myself for a moment, I'd like to add the rider that close partners will expect you to follow their wishes, and may get a little uppity if you refuse. It's all a matter of being delicately diplomatic.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
If you're a little edgy it's because you're highly intuitive - and that you sense fresh possibilities are fanning out. If you don't make a choice now, events over the next seven days may force the pace. But, if you do take a decision, you can always change your mind, later.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Today's lunar alignments enhance much that is best in your character. Someone at home may have left you feeling slightly perplexed and scratching your head. On the other hand, you still have plenty of time to complete domestic arrangements to suit your aims and interests.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Slowly, and with great subtlety, an old order of life has passed away. And as one set of conditions and feelings fade, the space is made for another. Yet, for many of you, there is still much to be done. The only problem is that it's almost impossible to predict when the current cycle will be completed.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Everything in your chart focuses on the personal rather than the professional. By this I don't mean that you're obsessed by family issues, but that everything you do should be motivated by your inner needs and desires. Follow your nose and you may get where you want to be much more quickly than if you follow partners.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Someone may ruffle your feathers, but I have a feeling that if anyone causes an upset today, it may be you. This may be no bad thing, for you are probably quite justified in insisting that other people see things your way. But that won't stop you putting your foot in it!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
It's not like you to criticise other people unfairly but, if you're stuck in a corner, that's exactly what you may do. This would be a shame, for you have a reputation to keep up. So don't let anyone tempt you into gossiping about a mutual friend - unless you have only good things to say about them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Mercury and Venus are both positively placed, each in its own way, so friends and team-mates should still be crowding round with words of encouragement. You may therefore feel that you are strong enough to embark on a brand new adventure. You deserve a break!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Within the next day or so you may begin to realise that someone was not really what they seemed. Any sense of disappointment may be matched by a realisation that the time has come to get out and make new friends. If your judgement was poor in the past, then at least you have learnt a valuable lesson.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Difficult as a current situation may be, you have little option but to sit it out. When all is said and done, you must see that your current circumstances, financial, professional and personal, are largely as you have shaped them. It's time to take responsibility!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
It is difficult to get away from the fact that money and material security are dominating your thoughts and plans, even at an unconscious level. A friend, possibly a female friend, may offer the help you need. It may require, though, that you change a long-standing approach.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Stay one step ahead of the stars and begin to exert your authority over financial or business affairs. Sometime soon, someone is going to step forward with an offer of a potentially profitable partnership. When they do, you should take all the time you need to consult the experts.

K'taka now 4th in vaccinating health workers

State just 2 per cent away from becoming worst performer in country

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

WHILE the Union Health Ministry has set a deadline of March 6 to wrap up the vaccination drive for all healthcare and frontline workers, Karnataka which was ranked first for inoculating the highest number of beneficiaries till recently has slipped to the fourth spot. It is just around 2 per cent away from becoming the worst performer in vaccinating healthcare workers.

Data released by the State Health Ministry shows that so far, 41 per cent of beneficiaries, including frontline workers, have been vaccinated. The low hit rate is because of vaccine hesitancy, erratic internet connectivity glitching CoWIN portal, fears of vaccine side-effects and beneficiaries waiting for more information on the vaccines, experts pointed out.

While the Centre is trying to handhold states to achieve better Covid vaccination targets and is conducting reviews to find reasons behind hesitancy, Dr Anant Bhan, bioethics researcher who is closely monitoring vaccine-related issues, said, "Besides safety issues, the fall in cases over last weeks too has perhaps dampened the feeling of urgency and worries about Covid-related risks."

Interestingly, many beneficiaries in several districts have stayed away as they fear that they have to abstain from alcohol after taking the vaccine. But the health ministry has clarified that consuming alcohol is not an issue. But the government has to find reasons behind the tepid response and address issues, including platform glitches and worries among beneficiaries, experts said.

Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar, after inaugurating an obstetric triage at Vani Vilas Hospital and Respiratory ICU at Victoria Hospital on Wednesday, said, "Medical students should become ambassadors of this vaccination drive and other staff should be inspired by them. But some students are citing exams as a reason not to take the vaccine. There should be no link between the vaccine and the exam as there are no side-effects."

He said that some states have threatened to cut the salaries of healthcare workers if they do not come forward to take the vaccine. "But we don't have such restrictions here," he added.

Following the Union Health Ministry's order, the State Government will carry out a mop-up round for healthcare workers by February 24 and for frontline workers by March 6.

14 yrs on, health varsity in Ramanagara yet to take off

CHETANA BELAGERE @Bengaluru

Deputy Chief Minister C N Ashwath Narayan inspects the land where an RGUHS campus has been planned to come up in Ramanagara on Wednesday

"IT'S like deja vu for us. From every government we hear the same and then nothing is done about it," rued a professor of Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences (RGUHS) after hearing Deputy Chief Minister C N Ashwath Narayan visited Ramanagara on Wednesday and said that the "construction of the university in Ramanagara will begin soon."

RGUHS, Karntaka's premier health university which was established in 2016 and controls a majority of medical, dental and other health science courses across Karnataka, doesn't yet have a campus of its own. The university is presently run from the temporary venue located in a wing of the old Sanjay Gandhi Hospital in Jayanagar, Bengaluru.

"The earlier governments did try to find land around Bengaluru, but that did not work and then during (former CM) H D Kumaraswamy's government in 2007, the RGUHS Act was amended and it was decided to shift the campus to Ramanagara and land was also identified for this," the professor said. It's been 14 years now.

The plan made then did not work out as farmers didn't agree to part with their land and went to court against the state government order, RGUHS Vice-Chancellor Dr S Sachidananda clarified to TNIE.

He said, "Till 2015, court cases were on when the Supreme Court cleared all litigations pending on the acquired land for the university campus. However, the farmers again started agitating stating that they want more compensation. Hence, there was delay on acquiring land."

Interestingly, Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee president D K Shivakumar, who was the then district in-charge minister, had shown keen interest in restarting the process of shifting the university to Ramanagara. Then chief minister Siddaramaiah, too, had directed the release of Rs 500 crore as per the 2007 tender for the construction of the medical college and hospital on the new campus. However, the university syndicate members reportedly were not ready to release this from their grants. However, by then the farmers too had started claiming for more compensation.

Now, Ashwath Narayan, who is district in-charge minister for Ramanagara, visited the land and instructed the authorities and V-C of RGUHS to quickly resolve issues with the farmers and start construction of the university soon.

"I have already discussed the matter with Dr K Sudhakar, Medical Education and Health Minister. He is also interested in rolling out the project soon," he said.

RISKY LIVER TRANSPLANT A SUCCESS

RANJANI MADHAVAN @ Bengaluru

A 12-hour complex liver transplant on a 38-year-old man weighing 160kg, was successfully conducted in Bengaluru recently. Doctors at BGS Gleneagles Global Hospital said the morbidly obese patient was suffering from liver cirrhosis (Decompensated chronic liver disease) and claimed that transplant was done on the heaviest patient in South India so far. He was listed for cadaveric liver transplant for more than three months, failing which he would not have survived.

His symptoms included jaundice and swelling (fluid collection) in the abdomen region which could lead to an infection. The cause was presence of fatty liver (excess fat in body) owing to overeating and lack of exercise.

Dr Sunil Shenvi, consultant, Multi-Organ Transplantation and HPB surgery, BGS Gleneagles Global Hospital, said, "When the Kolkata-based businessman reached out to us for his liver problem, he was very weak and required immediate medical attention. Operation on an obese patient is risky, as exposure is limited and doctors cannot see inside the body properly due to fat. His liver was stuck to other organs."

> Operation on an obese patient is risky, as exposure is limited and doctors cannot see inside the body properly due to fat. His liver was stuck to other organs
> Dr Sunil Shenvi, consultant, Multi-Organ Transplantation and HPB surgery, BGS Gleneagles Global Hospital

A team of transplant surgeons, anaesthetists, intensivists and hepatologists performed the procedure. The instruments, facilities and treatment plan for the patient were different from the traditional method. Administering anaesthesia was challenging due to the presence of fat in the neck region, and as veins were deep within the body fat, it was tough to administer the IV line.

"The risk for any transplant includes bleeding, bile leak, infection, hernia and lengthy ICU stay. In case of obese patients, the risk and complications are higher. This patient was given a bigger bed, chair and wheelchairs, and even large CT scan equipment," Dr Shenvi added.

Dr Venugopal B Pillai, HoD and senior consultant, Liver Transplant, BGS Gleneagles Global Hospital said, "The team decided to do a bariatric surgery simultaneously, but the patient's condition was feeble, so we deferred it."

Ahead of budget, ASHA workers list out demands

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AHEAD of the state budget to be presented in the first week of March, ASHA (Accredited Social Health Activists) workers' union, which is affiliated to the All India United Trade Union Centre (AIUTUC), submitted a list of demands to Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa on Wednesday.

The demands include an increase in honorarium to Rs 12,000. Currently, they earn Rs 4,000 from the state government and variable incentive-based pay from the central government, for completing specific tasks under national health programmes. However, owing to technical issues on the online portal even their completed tasks do not get updated and their incentives never reach them. Therefore, their demands also include fixing the technical glitches in the portal.

The union also requested the central government to clear the pending incentive-based pay and honorarium for the month of July.

They said that the Rs 10,000 Covid risk incentive announced for other healthcare workers such as D-group staff was never extended to them for performing their corona duty.

The state government had earlier promised a risk incentive of Rs 3,000 for ASHA workers on corona duty, but that did not reach all of them. They demanded that the funds for those be released too.

Dosa, coffee and breakfast diplomacy

Serendipity played its whimsical role on Wednesday morning, when MLC Adagur H Vishwanath was polishing off a plate of idli-vada at Hotel Janardhan, and in walked Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa with Minister for Food and Civil Supplies Umesh Katti. Yediyurappa had just finished garlanding the statue of former CM Kengal Hanumanthaiah on his 113 birth anniversary. Vishwanath, who has been sulking ever since he realised he would not be accommodated in the Cabinet, has been critical of the CM of late. An unruffled Yediyurappa invited him to join them as they tucked into scrumptious masala dosas and piping hot coffee, for which the hotel, near Shivananda Circle in Bengaluru, is famous. The threesome got chatting, though the content and context remained a matter of speculation. Vishwanath later told TNIE, "The CM called me over and suggested I have coffee, which I did." And was anything 'important' discussed? "In a hotel, what can you talk? I congratulated CM Yediyurappa on his wonderful response to Siddaramaiah's allegations recently."

Heggade's Angels beat Kingfisher debt

Dharmasthala dharmadhikari Veerendra Heggade was so impressed by the ₹1,200-crore savings made by members of Sri Kshetra Dharmasthala Rural Development Project's Self-Help Groups that he was inspired to call the women "angels". "You saved a whopping ₹1,200 crore! That's more than Vijay Mallya's debts," he quipped, at a function held in Tumakuru, which is the hometown of Heggade's daughter's in-law. "You saved ₹10 and ₹20, and Tumakuru district contributed ₹50 crore. Seeing a recovery of 99.5 per cent, Union Bank of India has come forward to give you the loans," he told the women. To which one wisecrack in the audience commented, "Mallya's angels were different, they didn't help him save!"

Power play puts CM in a cleft stick

Tumakuru district minister J C Madhuswamy, who got back his favourite Minor Irrigation portfolio, is seemingly going great guns. When Lok Sabha MP G S Basavaraju proposed Ekanthappa as the new CEO of the Zilla Panchayat, Madhuswamy put a brake on it. Instead, he proposed the names of Kumar, who had worked as assistant commissioner some years ago, and Vidhya Kumari. The post fell vacant a week ago when Subha Kalyan went on maternity leave. With both Basavaraju and Madhuswamy having stood strongly by CM Yediyurappa in fair times and foul, the latter is now cornered into a Catch-22 situation.

No funds, JDS won't fight bypolls: Gowda

Not to contest Belagavi LS, Maski, Sindagi, Basavakalyan assembly seats; JDS supporting BJP to defeat GOP: Cong

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

JDS supremo H D Deve Gowda inaugurating a farmers' meet at Devadurga in Raichur district on Wednesday

JDS supremo H D Deve Gowda on Wednesday said his party will not contest the ensuing bypolls to Belagavi Lok Sabha seat, and Maski, Sindagi and Basavakalyan Assembly segments. "JDS will not field its candidates. We don't have the money to fight these elections," he told reporters in Raichur, on the sidelines of a party event.

Bypolls to Belagavi LS and Basavakalyan assembly seats are necessitated following the death of Union Minister Suresh Angadi and B Narayana Rao respectively last year. While Maski fell vacant following the disqualification of MLA Prathapgouda Patil, the Sindagi bypoll is due following the death of JDS MLA M C Managuli.

Of 15 Assembly segments that went for bypolls in 2019, the JDS did not win a single seat, and in 2020, the party failed to retain Sira and came a distant third in RR Nagar.

Meanwhile, JDS State President H K Kumaraswamy said the party was concentrating on the next assembly polls. "At present, we are focusing on the upcoming taluk and ZP polls. We are organising a JDS convention in Bengaluru on February 14, where we will felicitate our newly-elected GP members. Through this convention, we want to send out a message that the JDS is ready to face local body polls," he added.

Meanwhile, the Congress has accused the JDS of not fielding candidates in the bypolls to help the BJP. "We don't know if Gowda is interested in helping the BJP, but he doesn't want the Congress to win any election. There is an understanding between the BJP and JDS," a senior Congress leader told TNIE. He gave an example of an "alliance" between the JDS and BJP in the recent election to the post of Legislative Council chairman, and said both parties could go to any level to defeat the Congress. "What was the need to remove the earlier chairperson belonging to the Congress and elect a JDS member? Earlier, JDS leaders were opposing the Anti-Cow Slaughter Bill... but the government passing the Bill amid protests, one day before the chairman election, shows how the JDS is hand-in-glove with the BJP," the Congress leader added.

Meanwhile, the Congress too has started preparations for taluk and ZP elections. KPCC Working President Saleem Ahmed said the party will form committees comprising 25 members in every GP. "Once the committees are constituted, they'll reach out to voters, highlighting the government's failure in handling the Covid-19 pandemic and farmers' issues," he said.

'DON'T MAKE FARMERS' STIR A PRESTIGE ISSUE'

Deve Gowda said the Union government shouldn't make the ongoing protest by farmers against the farm laws a prestige issue and should, instead, discuss and sort out the issue amicably. The former PM told reporters that farmers have the right to voice their concerns. He said the Centre shouldn't have implemented the farm laws in a hurry and "it should have taken two months' time to discuss the matter". "Farmers have participated in 11 rounds of negotiations with the government peacefully," he added. On the violence that rocked parts of Delhi on January 26, Gowda said a probe was on and added, "I will not answer questions on money coming from other countries (to fund the protests). The Home Ministry is conducting an investigation... Once the report is out, I will speak." Asked about the issue of demand for reservation from various communities, Gowda said former CM Siddaramaiah would have more details on the matter. "He will speak about it," he quipped.

'MAMATA WILL BECOME CM AGAIN'

Deve Gowda said that TMC supremo Mamata Banerjee will win the Assembly polls in West Bengal again, but with fewer seats, and become Chief Minister for the third time. "One has to appreciate her courage. Entire BJP top brass is in West Bengal. Many of her MLAs and ministers quit her party. It will have some impact on her prospects. But it will not stop Mamata from winning the election. She will become the CM again," he said. He also said the BJP will not get many seats in Tamil Nadu, which along with Kerala, West Bengal, Assam, Sikkim and Puducherry, will go to polls soon.Gowda also said he will work hard to ensure the JDS forms the next government in Karnataka.

In-house rumblings: Caste, sub-caste equations threaten to rive Congress

BANSY KALAPPA
@ Bengaluru

THE Congress party, currently a full house with a Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) president and as many as five working presidents, is being threatened by loud rumblings that certain castes and communities have been given prominence and others have been ignored.

While KPCC President D K Shivakumar and Working President R Ramalinga Reddy both hail from the prominent Vokkaliga community, senior leader H K Patil, appointed in-charge of Maharashtra, belongs to the Reddy community.

Of the other working presidents, Satish Jarkiholi is an ST, Saleem Ahmed a minority, Eshwar Khandre is a Lingayat and R Dhruvanarayan is from SC Right.

With the issue catching fire, sources in the party said that SC Left members are complaining that they have not got their due.

K H Muniyappa, who is from SC Left, holds no position of prominence and has only been accommodated as an invitee to the Congress Working Committee (CWC). Former opposition leader in the Lok Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge and former Deputy Chief Minister Dr G Parameshwara are both SC Right.

Recently, former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, who is also the Leader of Opposition in the Assembly, had, in a series of tweets, pointed to this anomaly. Sources say this has benefited the BJP. SC Left members were hoping that either former minister H Anjaneya, R B Thimmapur, RS MP L Hanumanthayya or former MP BN Chandrappa would be accommodated in the KPCC, but that has not happened.

The other grouse is that while Siddaramaiah, a Kuruba, is opposition leader, many other small and large backward communities like the Idigas, Gangamasthas and others have been ignored. Sources point out that the Congress paid the price and lost the assembly polls because backward class votes shifted considerably away from the Congress. Backward classes represent more than 35 per cent of the electorate. They also cite former Chief Minister D Devaraj Urs, still considered a genius at in-house social engineering.

The issue, though, may have to be put on the back burner. Congress leader Siddaramaiah is scheduled to visit his constituency, Badami, for two days and check into a nature cure camp along the coast for about 10-12 days, while D K Shivakumar is busy with preparations for his daughter's marriage and reception this weekend.

It remains to be seen if All India Congress Committee (AICC) General Secretary in charge of Karnataka Randeep Surjewala hears out the detractors and accommodates them before the stormy budget session begins.

Curbs on temple jatres, car festivals lifted in state

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE State Government on Wednesday lifted its ban on certain special pujas, jatres and other rituals in temples across the state that was in force on account of Covid-19 pandemic. Starting this month, temples can hold jatres, car festivals and other pujas services following all Covid-19 norms.

According to a circular issued by the State Endowment Commissioner, devotees of various temples had demanded that the temple authorities conduct utsavas/ jatres at their respective temples. As February is an auspicious month, several jatres are held in temples across the State. The circular further directed temples to follow all safety guidelines issued by the Union and State governments and respective district commissioners. With this directive, temples in state can hold rathotsavas, pavithrotsavas, anna dasohas, vishesha pujas, and other services.

The government had imposed restrictions on entry of devotees to temples and a ban on several special rituals owing to a spike in Covid-19 cases. However, in September last year, temples were allowed to open with certain restrictions and resume partial pujas.

MINISTER & ACTOR

A NEET switch of roles – Sudhakar to act in a movie

ASHWINI M SRIPAD
@Bengaluru

FROM real to reel. Health and Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar will soon do a cameo in a Kannada movie based on a real-life story. And he will play himself.

Not just this, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa is likely to make a guest appearance in this yet untitled film.

The movie is based on the moving story of a young girl –Tanuja – NEET aspirant from Shivamogga.

Her story has as many twists and turns as in a movie. She was to take her NEET exams in September. Her house was located in a containment zone and she had Covid symptoms, which prevented her from taking the exam. However, in October, when the Supreme Court gave directions to conduct the re-examination for students who had missed it the first time due to the pandemic, Tanuja was among the candidates who had heaved a sigh of relief. But she had only a few days to complete the formalities .

Hailing from a remote village and a poor family, Tanuja didn't know what to do. Racing against time, she struggled to get the documents. And then she faced difficulties in submitting her documents in time due to technical glitches and almost lost yet another chance to write the exam. However, not losing hope, she approached her teacher, who in turn, contacted a Bengaluru-based journalist. On the exam day, the journalist tweeted about Tanuja's plight at 6.30 am, tagging the Chief Minister.

Meanwhile, the staff from minister Sudhakar's office read this tweet and brought it to the notice of the minister. Sudhakar immediately called the NEET Director in Delhi, who initially refused to oblige. But after a lengthy conversation, he agreed for Tanuja to write the exam.

The exam was at 2pm in Bengaluru. Tanuja, who was in a village in Shivamogga, made it to Bengaluru somehow and reached the examination centre on time and wrote the exam.

Sudhakar played a key 'role' in Tanuja writing the exam. He will be playing the same role in the film.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, Harish M D Halli, director of the movie, said he approached Sudhakar who reportedly agreed to act. "I have asked him for three days and he asked me to meet him to discuss," he said.

Harish said the shooting will begin in March and the movie is expected to release in August. Saptha Pavoor of Sarkari. Hi. Pra. Shale Kasaragodu movie will play the role of Tanuja.

"When I saw this news story, I was impressed. I interacted with every person who played an important role and the script is ready," he said.

'New sand policy to put an end to graft'

THE aim is to help end-users get local resources at a nominal cost and to put an end to corruption. The government will not fix a limit on the quantity of sand people take for construction of houses in villages as that is not for sale. They can take sand only from places that are not auctioned and need to pay a nominal charge, Mines and Geology Minister Murugesh Nirani said.

"Charging a cess in villages will not have any impact on the department's revenues. Even if revenue reduces by ₹50 crore, we can get more by streamlining the system and keeping a close watch on sand transportation by big players. The department has targeted Rs 3,750 crore for 2020-21 and measures will be taken to double the revenues for the next financial year," he said. District mineral foundation trusts will handle issues related to drinking water, environmental protection, health, hygiene and others and will also work on skill development, infrastructure and water conservation. Various departments will carry out the works with grants from the Mines and Geology Department, he said. The department is planning to set up Karnataka Mineral Industrial Development Board on the lines of Karnataka Industrial Area Development Board to give a fillip to the sector, he said.

Reddy looks to new dist for political rebirth

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR
@ Ballari

SOON after the State Government officially announced the 31st district of the state by dividing Ballari district and forming Vijayanagara, the political circles are abuzz on whether former minister and miner Gali Janardhana Reddy can now visit the new district. Speculation is rife that he may look at the new district as one which may give him political rebirth.

Reddy who was arrested in 2011 was jailed for nearly four years for his alleged role in illegal mining, and was granted bail in 2015.

Without the court's permission, Reddy cannot enter three districts – Anantapur and Kadapa in Andhra Pradesh and Ballari in Karnataka.

Now with the carving of the new district, some experts feel that he may not have any legal hurdle to enter Vijayanagara. He has business establishments in Hosapete.

Some insiders say that Reddy has a wish to restart his political career from Hosapete. "Before Reddy was prisoned in the illegal mining case, his close aide B Sriramulu was planning to launch a political party named BSR Congress. A rally was held in Hosapete in 2010, which was not a great success. But now things have changed. Minister Anand Singh, a Ballari baron who was then in Congress, has joined BJP and won from Vijayanagara. This may work in Reddy's favour if he decides to restart his political career here," said a political expert from Ballari.

Sirigeri Pannaraj, senior advocate from Ballari, said that the Supreme Court while sanctioning the bail had asked Reddy not to visit Ballari district in Karnataka. "But now as the district has been divided, Reddy can visit the new district. These days, he mostly visits Chitradurga which is closer to Ballari. Now he can visit Hosapete, which is the district headquarters of the new district," the advocate said.

However, some legal experts said that in the event of a fresh case against Reddy, then the court can decide on this ticklish problem of whether he can be allowed to visit Vijayanagara, carved out of Ballari.

DELAY BY FSL AFFECTING JUSTICE, SAYS HC

Home Secy told to file affidavit detailing filling of vacancies at FSL, modernising laboratories across state

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Wednesday observed that the sorry state of the State Forensic Science Laboratory (FSL) and state government's failure to provide proper facility for the FSL is affecting the criminal justice system and fundamental rights of the accused.

Initiating suo motu proceedings, a division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum issued notice to the Chief Secretary, Principal Secretary, Home Department, DG and IGP, Inspector Generals Police of all Ranges, police commissioners of all cities, director of State FSL and deputy directors of all Regional FSLs.

The court directed the Home Secretary to file an affidavit detailing the filling of vacant posts in the FSL, making them operative, timeline for analysis of samples/articles sent to FSL, providing modern equipment to FSL and establishing modern regional labs or mobile labs for analysis of blood samples, etc.

The affidavit should also disclose immediate and long-term measures to improve the FSL's functioning, the court said, asking the secretary to file it by March 15, 2021.

The court initiated suo motu proceedings based on an order passed in a criminal plea in which there was delay of four years in the FSL report. The matter will be heard on March 18, 2021.

IMA scam: 65,258 claims received

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A total of 65,258 claims for 69,099 accounts and for a total claim amount of Rs 2,695.13 crore have been received in relation to the IMA scam, and permission has been sought from the special court for the settlement of claims, the Competent Authority and Special Officer informed the Karnataka High Court on Wednesday.

It was stated in the status report, filed before a division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum, that the forensic auditors have been asked to confirm the verification and their report was likely to be received in a week's time. As per this verification, the net principal payable to the claimants comes to Rs 2,646 crore, which is marginally less than the claim amount of Rs 2,695 crore. Further, the net payable to the claimants is likely to be about Rs 1,372 crore after adjusting for the payouts received by the depositors from the IMA group.

The Special Officer, Harsh Gupta, stated that the bank account verification of all the claimants had been undertaken with a test transfer of one rupee to their bank account through online transfer. He said the Law Department has given opinion to proceed with the proposal for recovery of money from those depositors who have received payouts more than their deposit amounts.

It was also stated in the report that permission for the settlement of claims initially up to Rs 50,000 for each claimant, limiting the total amount to each of them to their eligible claim amount, has been sought from the special court.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mangaluru

THE HC has cancelled the bail of a man held for an acid attack on his sister-in-law and her child at Kadaba taluk in Dakshina Kannada, and has directed police to arrest him.

The victim had filed a petition in the HC to cancel the bail granted by the District Sessions Court. The incident occurred in January last year at Kodimbala.

Her husband had passed away, and she was living with her two-year-old daughter. Her husband's elder brother, K Jayananda, visited her frequently and forced her to repay a loan. On January 23, he entered her house and began abusing her. When the victim started videographing him, he threw acid on her and her child. Based on her complaint, police arrested Jayananda, and sent him to judicial custody.

In August last year, he was granted bail by the District Sessions Court, which has been overturned by the HC.

SC stays Andhra High Court order castigating govt

HC order questioned wisdom of legislature, govt, CM and advocates representing State

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayawada

The Supreme Court on Wednesday stayed an order passed by the Andhra Pradesh High Court questioning the wisdom of the legislature, the government, the Chief Minister and advocates representing the State.

The Bench of Chief Justice of India SA Bobde, Justices AS Bopanna and V Ramasubramanian stayed the order after hearing submissions by Senior Advocate Sajan Poovayya, appearing for the State.

The HC order was passed on December 30, 2020 after the government filed an application seeking recusal of the then Justice Rakesh Kumar on the grounds that he had prejudged the issue even without hearing the State.

The application was filed on the basis of the oral observations made by the judge during the hearing of the case: "How could the Government auction the properties of the State, had Government become bankrupt to auction Government properties, we will declare there is break down of constitutional machinery in the State and hand over the administration to the Central Government."

In its plea before the Supreme Court, the YS Jagan Mohan Reddy government maintained that since the judge indicated its predisposition to the case, it was constrained to file an application seeking recusal of the judge.

In its order, the HC had also called for an explanation from the CM as to why contempt proceedings should not be initiated against him, even as it claimed that the statements made in the application were untrue. Seeking a direction to set aside the order, the government states that instead of addressing the issue at hand, "The High Court had chosen to travel completely beyond the scope of the lis and has proceeded to castigate the wisdom of the legislature, the Government, the Chief Minister as well as the advocates representing the Government."

The appeal further states that the High Court order casts aspersions on the Supreme Court Collegium on the mere ipse dixit of the HC Judge.

Oil leak: Veli coast on alert

T'Puram: Around 2,000 litres of furnace oil leaked from state-run Travancore Titanium Products Ltd (TTP) to the adjacent coast around Veli in Thiruvananthapuram on Wednesday. District Collector Navjot Khosa said the situation was under control and there was no need for concern among the public. However as a precaution, tourism and fishing activities in Veli, Vettucaud and Shankhumukham have been banned for two days. Visitors won't be permitted to these coasts during the period. The incident happened in the morning when a glass furnace pipe burst and the oil leaked to the sea through the drainage pipe. ENS

Church feud: Panel proposes referendum

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Kottayam

IN A MOVE to end the decades-old dispute between the Orthodox and Jacobite factions of the Malankara Church, the Kerala State Law Reforms Commission headed by former Supreme Court judge K T Thomas has proposed a referendum to determine the majority of the faithful in a parish for claiming ownership of its church. The commission submitted the draft bill to the government on Wednesday.

"To determine the majority, a referendum needs to be carried out. Provisions also have been made to protect the ownership rights and beliefs of the churches," Justice K T Thomas told TNIE.

According to him, a three-member authority headed by a retired SC/HC judge has to carry out the referendum.

"The authority will also have a member each from the Jacobite and the Orthodox factions. If the Churches do not nominate a member to the authority, then the state government can do the nomination," he said.

Justice Thomas said the decisions taken by the authority would apply to both factions. "If a dispute arises about the ownership of a church, then the parishioners can submit a letter to the district magistrate citing they are in the majority. The draft stipulates the magistrate has to conduct an initial investigation into the matter and then hand it over to the authority for the referendum," said Justice Thomas. As per the draft bill, until the referendum is over, none is to be evicted from the church.

"When it comes to the ownership of a church, the 1934 constitution has no standing since it has not been registered. This has been made clear even in the 2017 Supreme Court judgment. The churches are to be governed by the 1934 constitution as stated in the SC judgment," he said. According to him, the bill, if made into an ordinance, will go a long way in ending the feud. "However, that is now the government's prerogative. We send a lot of draft bills to the government and they select some of them. One such was the cemetery bill, which played a big role in defusing some amount of tension," said Justice Thomas.

WHAT THE BILL ENTAILS

Referendum has to be carried out by a 3-member authority

The authority should comprise a retired SC/HC judge and a representative each of Jacobite and Orthodox factions

No believer is to be evicted from the church until a decision is arrived at by the authority

"He was stable on Tuesday but fluctuations were noticed on Wednesday," she said.

Snake rescue specialist Mohammed Anees said, "Russel's viper is among the four deadliest poisonous snakes and are commonly found in Bengaluru. Russel's viper has haemotoxins which cause fluctuations in the heart rate. The snake lurks in darkness as it is a nocturnal forager. Its hiss louder than any other snake."

A circular issued on September 20, 2019, by the Investigations Customs Wing of the Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs of the Centre's Revenue Department states, "Drones are required to get equipment type approval (ETA) from the Wireless Planning and Coordination Wing of the Ministry of Communications and Information Technology. There is no exemption for any agency/organisation is this regard." The flyer was on the radar as passenger profiling threw up his name. "He is from Ramanathapuram in Tamil Nadu and had left from the Chennai International Airport to Dubai on February 3. We scanned his baggage and found the items," said another official.

One iPhone can be bought for personal use, but four such pieces amount to a commercial consignment, he said. The total value of the phones was Rs 4,79.600.

The gold paste was in six tiny egg-shaped capsules inside plastic covers. "Three such eggs were concealed in his rectum, while three others inside his socks. The gold paste weighed 1,789 gm and after extraction, we had 1316 gm of gold, valued at Rs 62,35,681" he added.

Crop research findings to be taken to farmers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE horticulture department will take crop research findings to farmers in all districts to ensure good yields and a boost in farm incomes, said Horticulture Minister R Shankar here on Wednesday.

In this context, he said researchers have created a new variety of pomegranate which has more iron and nutrition content. Similarly, farmers can now grow more onions per acre with the new variety. But all this and more is not known to all farmers and even lesser known to consumers. So to ensure that farmers and consumers benefit, more such fairs should be held in all zillas, Shankar said at the National Horticulture Fair 2021.

Though guavas are a very healthy fruit for diabetics and other patients, since many also have dental issues, they do not eat it. But here at the horticulture fair, there is a new variety in which the seeds are very tender, he said.

Shankar said not just availability of horticultural crops, but even their production should be eased for all farmers. All measures will also be taken to ensure that hybrid varieties are easily available in the market, he said.

He said he would ask the government to include subsidy for seed procurement even for horticultural crops in the Budget so that more farmers benefit and also ensure availability of solar panels and solar vending machines.

The horticulture fair, which kick-started on February 8, is on till February 12. Due to the pandemic, for the first time, farmers are not just physically participating in the fair, organised by ICAR- IIHR, but are also virtually attending it.

At the fair, MoUs were signed between farmers and four firms.

Bus driver attack: Accused nabbed after 3 weeks

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

THREE weeks after some youths stabbed a KSRTC bus driver 16 times on the Mysuru-Hassan highway, the police nabbed them from a hotel at Molakalmuru in Chitradurga district.

Jayanth (23), an MBA dropout from Mandya; Vignesh, a relative of a rowdy-sheeter from Cheeranahalli in Mandya; and Prajwal, a car garage worker, were riding triples when the bus driver slightly turned his vehicle to the right side of the road to avoid a cow which suddenly jumped from the opposite side.

Irked by this, the trio chased the bus and stopped it near Hosaramanahalli, and abused the driver and conductor.

In the heat of the argument, Jayanth took a sharp object and stabbed the driver multiple times. The accused then dumped their cellphones on the highway and fled the scene.

The police that had formed three teams to trace the offenders grilled their friends, relatives and parents. It was when the accused made a call using somebody's phone to a friend, informing that they are heading to Molakamuru that the police came to know of their whereabouts. They reached the hotel where they were holed up and arrested them. Meanwhile, the police also shot at one of the accused when he attacked them in a bid to escape.

Murder suspect

It was found that Jayanth murdered his friend Anush Joy over a trivial issue. When Joy was unconscious, the accused with the help of Vignesh, Prajwal and Sagar brought him to Hosahalli. They crushed Joy's head with a boulder and dumped his body in the Cauvery river near Srirangapatna. Sources said the accused had planned to join a political party to evade arrests.

Farmers on a high as areca prices cross ₹500/kg

VINCENT D'SOUZA
@ Mangaluru

THE price of white arecanut grown widely in Coastal Karnataka and parts of Kerala has doubled in a gap of just one year. On Wednesday, the price of old stock in the domestic market stood at ₹505-520/kg, while that of new stock was ₹425-440/kg. A year ago, while the price of old stock was hovering around ₹260, for the new stock it was ₹220.

Experts in the field say that the arecanut prices have doubled in a matter of just one year for the very first time and attribute it to low harvest of the crop during the current season and tightening of country's borders, thereby preventing the arrivals of illegal imports from Indonesia and Myanmar, routed through Nepal.

Kishore Kumar Kodgi, president, The Central Arecanut and Cocoa Marketing and Processing Co-operative Limited (CAMPCO) said while the arecanut harvest is down by over 40 per cent this time due to rains and fruit rot disease (kole roga), the demand for arecanut for supari and other uses is on a steady rise, especially in North India. Also, many big farmers have resorted to hoarding in the hope of the prices shooting up further. All these factors have resulted in a record jump in the prices.

Arecanut spread out for drying in the front of a house in Mangaluru | EXPRESS

However, he felt that the record jump in the last one year is 'not a big rate' when it comes to individual farmers because of sharp decline in the harvest. "While the prices have doubled, the yield has also dwindled, which should be taken note of," he said. Looking at the current trend, he anticipates that the prices may further go up in the coming days and may not go down anytime soon.

Meanwhile, despite the CAMPCO announcing ₹505 a kg for old stock, its procurement centres in Karanataka and Kerala did not see many arrivals, which indicates that the growers are hoping for the prices to go up.

'NOT A GOOD SIGN'

While many growers are celebrating the jump in arecanut prices, some feel that the steep hike is not a good sign. Govind Bhat, a grower from Peruvai in Bantwal taluk, said the development could be disastrous, especially for the small growers, if the prices do not stabilise in the coming years. "Small growers are likely to imitate the lifestyle of big growers when they get a lot of money in their hands," he said.

NEW DAMPER AS PETROL EDGES TO ₹100 PER LITRE

Petrol and diesel prices have been surging for over a month now since January 6, much to the discomfort of the common man. The avoidable milestone of ₹100 per litre for petrol is now in striking distance. In some cities in Rajasthan, petrol is already above ₹97 a litre. In Delhi and Mumbai too, they are at an all-time high. In Mumbai, petrol is at ₹94.12 per litre, while diesel is ₹84.63. The timing of these hikes couldn't be worse, as they come when people are struggling to pull themselves out of the pandemic. This will not only add to the cost of the common man's daily budget due to the higher cost of transportation, but also negatively impact all fuel-based industries like auto companies.

Ironically, the price of crude oil is now steadily around $60 a barrel, as compared to roughly $19 a barrel in April last, due to the revival of global demand. And it is expected to stay that way for some time. The continued production cuts led by Saudi Arabia are also aimed at keeping prices moving up.

However, it is difficult to buy the government's game of blaming international prices. The economics of retail petrol and diesel is: 35-40% is the actual cost, and the remainder taxes and imposts. For instance, in Delhi, petrol's base price is just above ₹29 a litre, while the Centre collects around ₹33 as excise per litre. Add to that VAT or state taxes, freight and dealer commission, and the imposts total over ₹45 per litre for petrol. In the first week of April last year, petrol and diesel in Mumbai averaged ₹73 and ₹66 a litre. Therefore hardly any of the benefit of crude prices internationally crashing was passed on to consumers. The Union and state governments have to re-examine their opaque way of adjusting retail oil prices. For instance, through the pandemic, lower crude prices were not passed on to consumers. Instead, the governments skimmed the cream by increasing excise and VAT rates overnight. Immediate gains to the exchequer are hurting economic recovery in the long run.

NOT TOO LATE TO TURN VIZAG PLANT AROUND

The Union government has stirred a hornet's nest in Andhra Pradesh with its decision to divest its stake in Rashtriya Ispat Nigam Ltd, the corporate entity of Visakhapatnam Steel Plant. The Navratna company provides employment to approximately 20,000 people, not to speak of the many dependent on it indirectly. The Centre has its reasons to accelerate disinvestment in PSUs but the Vizag steel plant is unique. It came into being not simply because of a policy decision in the 1960s but out of the blood, sweat and tears of the people.

Andhra fought for it tooth and nail, and 32 lives were lost in police firing before its foundation was laid. It took over 20 years thereafter for the steel plant to be operational. Unfortunately, like several other PSUs, this too followed a familiar pattern and within a decade, turned sick at the turn of the century. Nonetheless, it rallied around to record profits till 2015. If one studies its performance, it becomes clear that its failure and enormous debt burden have more to do with the Centre's inexplicable handling than anything else. While its competitors have captive iron ore mines, the Vizag steel plant is forced to procure the same at market price, which means its input cost is up by thousands of crores. Why wasn't it allotted captive mines? It had to borrow loans to expand and is now debt-ridden. In his letter to the Centre, Chief Minister Y S Jagan Mohan Reddy pointed this out when he said the company is servicing its debt at mind-boggling interest rates of even 14%.

Despite its pathetic condition, the plant has several plus points. For one thing, it has a land bank of 19,700 acres worth at least ₹1 lakh crore and is close to utilising its full capacity of 7.3 MTPA. Given its history and assets, it appears it is not too late to turn it around if only the right decisions are taken. The Centre should not look at the plant as saleable family silver only to get cash for its needs. It is an emotive issue and deeply entwined with Andhra's history.

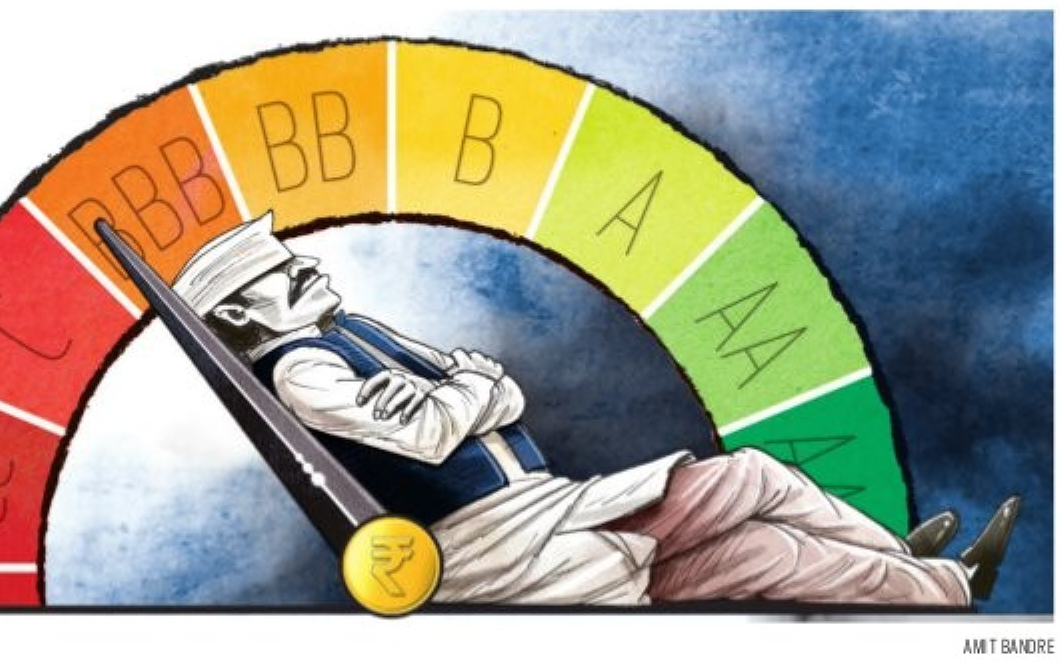
India's fundamentals pertaining to its ability and willingness to pay appear strong. Yet the credit rating assigned to it is the lowest among investment grade bonds. Why?

THE CURIOUS CASE OF OUR NATION'S SOVEREIGN RATING



AMIT BANDRE

TULSI JAYAKUMAR

Professor, Economics and Chairperson, Family Managed Business at Bhavans SPJIMR

Why would a country with a zero sovereign default history over the last two decades and with the status of the fifth largest economy in the world be relegated to an almost junk bond status at BBB-/Baa3? The Economic Survey answered this all-important question in 2017—the fiscal when India had emerged as the fastest growing economy in the world, with a growth rate of 7.6%. It covers the tricky and sensitive issue of sovereign credit ratings this year again, when India, impacted by the pandemic, is expected to record a negative 7.7% growth rate over the fiscal 2020-2021. So, a 7.8% growth as well as a 7.7% degrowth results in the same credit rating? Seems astounding and confusing. Not quite, if one were to understand what goes into how a country is rated by the 'big three' credit rating agencies, Standard & Poor's Global (S&P), Moody's and Fitch.

Sovereign credit ratings represent, in quantitative terms, the ability of the issuing government to meet its debt obligations. A credit rating of AAA is the highest, while BBB-, the credit rating assigned to India, is the lowest among the investment grade bonds. Ratings below this fall within the 'speculative' or 'junk' grade.

India's sovereign credit rating of BBB- then boils down to the following: The Indian government's probability of default, reflecting both its ability and willingness to repay its debt obligations, is very high. International investors then would be advised to beware of lending to India. This, however, seems completely incongruous with facts pertaining to both our ability and willingness to pay.

In order to repay debts denominated in dollars, a country needs to possess both the ability and willingness to repay. The country's foreign reserves determine its ability to pay. India's foreign exchange reserves, as of 15 January 2021, were at $584.24 billion compared to its total external debt, including that of the private sector, at $556.2 billion. Its reserves to debt ratio, which was at 78.4% in 2016-17, rose to 85% in 2019-2020, and appears to have further risen to 105% in 2021. The short-term debt owed by the private sector as a proportion of total forex reserves was 19.1% in September 2020. Further, our forex reserves were sufficient to cover 12 months of imports in 2020, as opposed to 11.1 months in 2016. Clearly, India has done reasonably well in terms of its external sector vulnerability, despite a pandemic. With regard to willingness to pay, clearly, that India has not had a zero sovereign default history attests to the fact that the probability of default is extremely low.

In November 2016, Standard & Poor's cited low per capita GDP and relatively high fiscal deficit as the reasons why India would not be granted a ratings upgrade for some 'considerable period'. It is clear that the pandemic and the fiscal stimulus in the recent Union Budget would extend the period considerably.

At one level, then, we may dismiss the ratings as 'noisy, opaque and biased', not reflective of the fundamentals, as in the Economic Survey.... While India's sovereign credit ratings may not indeed reflect its fundamentals, the latter are likely to be affected by the credit ratings going forward

Notwithstanding India faring well in domains pertaining to ability and willingness to pay, there are areas of concern that Indian policymakers will need to attend to. One such is the general government debt as a percentage of Gross Domestic Product (GDP), which has been rising and is expected to reach 91% of GDP in FY 2021, from a level of 75% of GDP in FY 2020. This is the highest level for India since the data has been made available in 1980. Moreover, such debt is likely to stay at high levels of up to 90% for at least another two years as per estimates. Then there is the issue of income inequality, which is likely to get exacerbated with some of the growth-enhancing policies. Thus, even as India prepares itself for a V-shaped recovery, it may be at the cost of the poor. The third is the issue of deteriorating fiscal health in the last few years. More than the fiscal deficit, the inability of the government to rein in the revenue deficits as also the primary deficits would pose issues of debt sustainability. The Union Budget 2021-22 places the fiscal deficit of the Central government alone at 9.5% of GDP, while the revenue deficit and primary deficit are at 7.5% and 5.1% respectively. To understand this in perspective, the combined fiscal deficit of the Union and state governments in 2016, when S&P refused an upgrade, was in the area of 6%.

At one level, then, we may dismiss the ratings as 'noisy, opaque and biased', not reflective of the fundamentals, as in the Economic Survey. But if it were that easy not to care, we wouldn't have the topic of sovereign credit ratings rising, phoenix-like, ever so often. And so, while India's sovereign credit ratings may not indeed reflect its fundamentals, the fundamentals themselves do not merit complacency. In fact, the latter are likely to be affected by the credit ratings going forward. And therein lies the key to the curious case of the salience of India's sovereign credit ratings!

CHEMISTRY IN ANCIENT INDIA, FROM HARAPPAN TO AYURVEDIC PERIOD

M S SRIRAM

Theoretical Physicist & President, Prof. K.V. Sarma Research Foundation

Chemical techniques in India can be traced back all the way to the Indus valley or Harappan civilisation (3rd millennium BCE). Following Acharya Prafulla Chandra Ray (1861-1944), the eminent Indian chemist of the last century and a historian of chemistry, five stages in its development in India can be recognised. They are: (i) the pre-Vedic stage upto 1500 BCE, including the Harappan period, (ii) the Vedic and the Ayurvedic period upto 700 CE, (iii) the transitional period from 700 CE to 1100 CE, (iv) the Tantric period from 700 CE to 1300 CE, and (v) the 'Iatro-Chemical period' from 1300 CE to 1600 CE. The dates cannot be considered definitive. Metallurgy was intimately linked with chemistry in India. We will discuss Indian metallurgy and metal-working in a later article, focussing our attention on chemical techniques for now.

Pre-Harappan Indians were acquainted with the art of making baked or burnt clay pottery as well as painting the same with two or more colours. This implies the construction of open and closed kilns. The pottery of the Harappan culture consisted of mainly wheel-made ware, turned in various shapes, sizes and colours out of the well-levigated alluvium of the Indus. The colour and other characteristics of the wares depended upon the composition of the clay used and techniques of firing under either oxidising or reducing conditions.

The Harappans also experimented with various mortars and cements made of burnt limestone, gypsum and mica, among other components. Finely crushed quartz, once fired, produced faience, a synthetic material; it was then coated with silica (perhaps fused with soda), to which copper oxide was added to give it a shiny turquoise glaze. Faience was then shaped into various ornaments and figurines. Addition of iron oxide, manganese oxide, etc., resulted in different colours. The Harappan artisans must have had an intimate knowledge of the processing and properties of several naturally occurring chemical substances. The craftsmen were highly skilled in the art of shaping and polishing the precious and semi-precious stones used for the production of beads.

In the second stage, Rigveda (earlier than 1500 BCE) mentions many fermented drinks and methods of fermentation, apart from various metals. Soma juice from the stems of the soma plant was highly extolled and considered a divine drink. Madhu and suraa (brewed from barley grain) also find mention. Curd or fermented milk was an important food item.

Cloths were mainly made of wool and the garments were often dyed red, purple or brown. Obviously, the Vedic Indians were acquainted with the art of dyeing with certain natural vegetable colouring matters.

A type of pottery, now known as 'Painted Grey Ware', is associated with the Vedic period. This ceramic is a thin gray deluxe ware, mostly wheel-made, well-burnt, glossy and copiously painted. Later, 'Northern Black Polished Ware' also came into being in the eastern part of the Gangetic plains. Also, plenty of iron objects of the later period have been found throughout India.

Kautilya's Arthashaastra (3rd or 4th century BCE), a well-known text of governance and administration, has a lot of information on prevailing chemical practices. Apart from mines and minerals, it discusses the details of precious stones, and of the preparation of fermented juices and oil extraction

Glass beads dating back to the 10th century BCE have been discovered. In the succeeding centuries, the glass industry gained momentum and there were notable feats of excellence, as evidenced by the archeological finds in over 30 sites spread over India. The sites include Taxila in present Pakistan, Hastinapur, Ahichchhatra and Kopia in Uttar Pradesh, Nalanda in Bihar, Ujjain in Madhya Pradesh, Nasik and Nevasa in Maharashtra, Brahmagiri in Karnataka, and Arikamedu in Puducherry. The glass objects include beads of different colours, including gold foil ones, glass vessels in green and blue colours, flasks of agate-banded type, bangles, ear-reels, eye-beads, etc. There is no doubt that the glassmakers were skilful in controlling the temperature of fusion, moulding, annealing, blotching and gold foiling. The chemical composition of a typical glass specimen from Kopia is as follows: silica 66.6%, alumina 7%, alkalies ($Na_2O$) 21.7%, ferric oxide 1.6%, lime 2.4%, manganese oxide .07%, and traces of titania and magnesia.

Kautilya's Arthashaastra (3rd or 4th century BCE), a well-known text of governance and administration, has a lot of information on prevailing chemical practices. Apart from mines and minerals, it discusses the details of precious stones (pearl, ruby, beryl, etc.), and also of the preparation of fermented juices (sugarcane, jaggery, honey, jambu, jackfruit, mango, etc.) and oil extraction. It also has classifications such as sour fruit juices, liquids, spices, vegetables, etc., based on their chemical practices.

The earliest versions of the two great Ayurveda classics, Charaka Samhitaa and Sushruta Samhitaa, may date back to a few centuries before the common era. They give accounts of several minerals, metals, metallic compounds, salts and fermented beverages. More importantly, they discuss the preparation of various alkalis (kshaara). Alkalis are of three types: mild (mridu), caustic (teekshna) and average (madhyama). They are prepared from some 25 plants that are mentioned in Sushruta Samhitaa. Hot alkaline solutions were used for treating thin sheets of metals like iron, gold or silver before incorporation into drugs. Caustic alkalis were also used for treating surgical instruments.

Varahamihira's Brihat-samhitaa (6th century CE) gives detailed information on the preparation of various perfumes and cosmetics. It also gives recipes for the preparation of glutinous material to be applied on the roofs and walls of buildings.

United despite differences

This is with reference to Proud to be Hindustani Muslim, says Azad after PM's teary farewell speech (Feb 10). It was a happy occasion for Congress veteran Ghulam Nabi Azad, who was praised by Prime Minister Narendra Modi for his service as Leader of Opposition in Rajya Sabha. Though there are differences of opinion over ideology between them, the PM's invitation to Azad to continue sharing his inputs with him is laudable.

P Victor Selvaraj, Palayamkottai

Peaceful coexistence

It is a matter of prestige for the Congress to have a tall leader like Azad. The veteran leader has said he is a proud Muslim of India. India has the second-largest number of Muslims in the world, who coexist peacefully.

K Jayanthi, Chennai

Religions & brotherhood

Azad, the outgoing Leader of Opposition in Rajya Sabha, correctly observed that he is proud of being an Indian Muslim. All religions help recognise divinity in man. The glory of India is its practice of brotherhood irrespective of one's religion.

R Soudararajan, Nagapattinam

Mere theatrics?

Politics makes for strange bedfellows. It was an unbelievable sight to see the PM shedding tears for Azad. Both have diametrically opposite views on many issues. The former is a proud Kashmiri whose beautiful J&K has been cut into pieces by the latter and the special status enjoyed by his compatriots terminated. Is it a shining example of mutually accommodative politics or mere theatrics?

Capt Raju Mathai (Retd), Kochi

Empty purses and tears

The tearful farewell for Azad is indeed a good gesture and in the process, the PM has scored political points. While opposition leaders appreciated the bonhomie, they also wanted to know from the PM why there are no tears for farmers who died amid the protests. However, for ordinary people, whether they go to the petrol bunk or market, they come back in tears with empty purses. Neither ruling nor opposition party leaders shed any tears for them.

N Nagarajan, Secunderabad

Protest fuel price rise

We are seeing protests over everything almost daily by different groups and political parties. But it is surprising to note that no political parties are taking the fuel price hikes seriously.

Respect environment

The moral of the story is to respect the environment for our own survival. Otherwise earthquakes such as the one in Koyna, Silent Valley floods and annual disasters in Assam and other states will cause immense loss of life and property. All our natural resources are not adequate to meet the greed of the people and this disaster should act as a wake-up call to all Central and state governmental agencies.

Pay their full salaries

This is with reference to BMTC drivers to protest if full wages not paid (Feb 10). Financial distress due to the pandemic has lead to partial payment of salaries month after month to employees of road transport corporations. The concerns of the working class have to be addressed. Any further delay will only increase their discontentment and should be avoided.

Avalanche chases down Tapovan guards

Of four personnel from Uttarakhand Police posted at Rishi Ganga project, two survived to tell horror of flash flood

THE body of head constable Manoj Chaudhary (top) was found on Monday floating at a ghat in the Pindar river in Karnprayag, where he was born. Karnprayag is around 120 km from the place where was on duty. Chaudhary (42) completed 24 years of service in the force last month.

"He came back to us to say a final goodbye," sobbed his elder brother Anil Chaudhary. The head constable is survived by his wife and two children — Tammanna (15) and Prince (12). His mother Kal Kishori Devi (81) is inconsolable, refusing to believe he is no more.

"Seema (his wife) and children are in shock. Our worst fears turned out to be true when I was called to identify a body on Monday. The only solace is that he did come back to us," says the elder brother.

Chaudhary was on duty at Rishi Ganga hydel power project with his three colleagues — Balbir Gadhia (58), Suresh Bhandari (59) and Deep Raj (38). The plant was the first victim of the Sunday flash floods, claiming dozens of lives. Out of the four police personnel from Uttarakhand state police, two — Suresh Bhandari and Deep Raj — survived to tell the horror. Deep Raj was the first one to inform the people as well as the authorities about the flashfloods from the Tapovan police post of Chamoli district, located along the Joshimath-Malari Highway, about 100 km from China border.

Raj alerted the Gopeshwar police control room which in turn alerted the state disaster relief force and other state agencies. Raj says he was "chased" by the flashfloods and was hit by stones "flying" in the air. "The stones were falling along with a deafening thunder. We all started to run and did not look back. I was hit by stones on my back. I wanted to escape to a higher ground to save myself," recalls Raj, who is now with his family in the state capital Dehradun.

Suresh Bhandari (59), another policeman surviver, recalls the day. "It was a bright day. We had a nice breakfast and were on duty. Suddenly, we heard screams, whistles and screams of people 'bhago, bhago (run)'. The sight and sound of the avalanche rumbling down towards us was fierce. We ran for our lives and did not look back," says Bhandari.

APART from the rescue team of various agencies, nine sniffer dogs are helping rescue workers in trying to locate the missing people in Chamoli.

The sight of two genial Labradors Rambo and Diesel wagging their tails brought some smiles in the otherwise sombre mood at the site of Tapovan hydropower project. Rambo and Diesel are part of the nine-member canine squad engaged to search for victims stuck in the rubble. While seven are deployed in Tapovan, two are doing the rounds with their handlers in Raini village. "These canines are highly trained and efficient to sniff out human smell. This squad is the best one. We are hopeful that once the tunnel is cleared they will help us locate the men," said Rambo's handler and SDRF member Manoj Kumar.

Rambo has to his credit saving over there dozen lives in his eight-year service.

Diesel is not far behind when it comes to getting his task done, says his handler from ITBP. "He is extremely efficient and ready to work at any moment. We are waiting for our chance to contribute and save those men. Diesel was trained in National Training Center for Dog in Tekanpur of Madhya Pradesh. I am with him since he was just two months old," Somveer Yadav said. "There are trackers, explosive detectors, PEDD (Patrolling and Explosive Detection Dog), SAR (Search and Rescue), narcotics detection based on their specialised training. They never let us down." For Yadav and Kumar, Diesel and Rambo are their extended family.

Indian Army's firm stand forced China to disengage at LAC

MAJ GEN (RETD) D A CHATURVEDI
Former division commander & head of the Territorial Army

THE statement from China's Ministry of Defence that both armies have started to disengage from the North and South banks of Pangong Tso post the consensus reached in the ninth round of Corps Commanders talks is a welcome step, which needs to be verified and confirmed on the ground.

Ideally, both sides should not only disengage but move back to their respective positions before the confrontation.

After the 1962 War, both India and China worked towards normalisation of relations, a process which took about three decades and more.

To their credit, both sides managed the disputed and undemarcated borders without resorting to armed force till the 'Galway Incident', through various diplomatic and military mechanisms.

It is in the interest of both the countries to manage their borders peacefully permitting and encouraging economic growth and well being unhindered by the spectre of war.

China started its economic reforms in 1979 and today is the second-largest economy in the world poised to overtake the USA as the number one economy in this decade itself and India is not far behind as the fifth largest economy in the world, poised to grow at a healthy growth rate of seven to eight per cent.

India's strategic doyen, K Subramaniam had stated India's national strategy as keeping the borders secure against aggression thus permitting unhindered economic growth.

To the credit of the Indian Army, it had foreseen the aggressive Chinese actions on the borders as early as almost eighteen years back and had started preparing for it meaningfully.

Indian Army's resolute action as Doklam is a case in point and immediately after its resolution, the Chief of Defence Staff, General Bipin Rawat, then the Chief of Army Staff had stated in a meeting of senior military commanders that he expected a 'Doklam' like action in Ladakh in the next couple of years.

China sees itself as the number one superpower in a couple of decades, however, if twenty-first century has to be the Asian Century, both India and China can ill afford a war between the world's two largest armies; at best they can cooperate and collaborate to grow economically or at worst compete with each other economically while shunning war as an option.

Both India and China as nations need to respect each other's sovereignty and work assiduously towards building mutual trust and respect. However, in the realm of realpolitik, the weak get rolled over and the best way to avoid war is to be militarily strong.

The development of the border infrastructure should continue apace while the Indian Armed Forces reorient themselves more towards the Northern and North Eastern borders.

In the present confrontation, both sides need to disengage and go back to their respective pre-confrontation locations.

Agri challenges can't be addressed by 18th century approach: PM

NEW DELHI: Reiterating willingness for talks with the agitating farmers, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday said the new farm laws have been enacted in the larger interests of agriculture.

Mentioning that the social reformers in the past, too, had gone against the stream for the betterment of society, Modi said India can't progress with a status quo approach, stating that the challenges of agriculture cannot be addressed by an 18th-century approach.

The Lok Sabha passed the Motion of Thanks to President Ram Nath Kovind's address to the joint sitting of the two Houses of Parliament, even while the Congress and the TMC staged a walkout during the reply of the PM.

"There are misconceptions about the farm laws. We respect the sentiments of the farmers. The ministers regularly kept talking to the farmers' unions. We have an open mind if any shortcomings in the farm laws are pointed out. We will have no reservation to address the concerns of the farmers," said Modi, who added that the Budget has also provided for the modernisation and strengthening of the existing APMC.

He asserted that the farm laws have only given additional options to the farmers to sell their produces.

He also took a potshot at the Congress, saying that the party has a different stand in the Rajya Sabha and the Lok Sabha.

"The Congress is divided and confused, and it can neither work for own good nor solve the challenges faced by the country," Modi said.

In his reply on the Motion of Thanks in the Lok Sabha, Modi also drew a distinction between "andolankari" and "andolanjeevi", saying that the former is pious and the latter has an anarchist intention. ENS

'Immunity against diphtheria low in Indian kids'

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

MAJORITY of children aged 5-17 years in India are either only partially or non-immune to diphtheria, leading to its reemergence as a public health challenge despite vaccine being against the infectious disease being part of the national immunisation programme for over four decades.

The revelation has come out in a serosurvey carried out by the ICMR's National Institute of Epidemiology. diphtheria, a bacterial disease, was a leading cause of childhood morbidity and mortality in the pre-vaccination era and a vaccine against was included in the country's national immunisation programme in 1978 as DTP vaccine.

A pentavalent vaccine, which provides protection against diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus, hepatitis B, and Haemophilus influenzae, was introduced in India in a phased manner in 2011, and covered the entire country by 2015.

The schedule for primary vaccination consists of three doses of diphtheria vaccine administered at ages 6, 10, and 14 weeks, and is followed by two booster doses, the first given between the ages of 16 and 24 months and the second between the ages of 5 and 6 years. The survey, however, found that only about 29% of 8,309 children, samples from whom were tested for antigen against diphtheria pathogen, aged 5–17 years were immune to diphtheria, 10.5% were non-immune, and 59.8% were partially immune.

The proportion of children who were non-immune to diphtheria ranged from 6% in the south to 16.8% in the north-east. Overall, 9.9% of children residing in rural areas and 13.1% in urban areas were not immune to diphtheria.

The study, published in the Lancet says that while the coverage of the three primary doses of diphtheria vaccines was estimated to be 78.4% during 2015–16, but reliable information about coverage of booster doses is not available in India as it is not routinely collected.

INDIA'S Covid-19 vaccination drive continues to ride on Covishield largely as the share of indigenous vaccine Covaxin is less than 11 per cent of over 2 crore vaccine doses supplied to the states so far, shows the government data. The Health Ministry, in response to a Parliament question, shared that out of nearly 2.15 crore Covid-19 vaccine doses supplied to the states, so far, only about 25 lakh doses are of Covaxin, produced by Hyderabad-based Bharat Biotech and the ICMR.

About 1.8 crore doses of Covishield, produced by Pune-based Serum Institute of India and developed on the technology by the Oxford University-AstraZeneca, had been sent to states till the beginning of this month. Also, Covaxin has been sent to 19 states and UTs, while Covishield has been supplied to all the states and UTs. Incidentally, Tamil Nadu, which has one of the lowest (less than 40%) vaccination coverage in India as of now, has received the highest — 1,89,000 — doses of Covaxin followed by Telangana, which had received 1,72,960 doses of the vaccine. The reasons for the lesser share of Covaxin include the reluctance of states in accepting the shots and supply issues by the manufacturer, officials at the ministry told this newspaper.

The Centre had initially procured 110 million doses of Covishield and 55 million doses of Covaxin, but a second procurement was carried out in later weeks.

BJP heavyweights to be fielded in TMC's fortress

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

BJP heavyweights Rajnath Singh, Yogi Adityanath and Smriti Irani are likely to be roped in by the saffron party for poll campaign in Trinamol Congress' citadel at Birbhum in West Bengal.

Comprising 14 Assembly constituencies, the south Bengal district had seen the BJP bag leads in four seats in the 2019 general elections. The BJP had gained remarkable momentum by taking its vote share to more than 40 per cent in 2019 from 8 percent in 2016.

''Since we have made deep inroads in north Bengal in 2019 by bagging seven out of eight Lok Sabha seats, we are now focussing on districts in south Bengal. We are expecting a tooth and nail battle with the TMC in Birbhum as our performance in the previous Lok Sabha elections was impressive,'' said a BJP leader.

Earlier, Union Home Minister Amit Shah had held a roadshow in Bolpur on December 20 with focus on 14 Assembly seats in the district's two Lok Sabha constituencies Birbhum and Bolpur.

Dubrajpur, Suri, Sainthia and Rampurhat in the Birbhum Lok Sabha constituency had seen BJP's inroads in 2019. When the saffron camp secured lead with a razor-thin margin in Sainthia, the difference was between 5 per cent and 9 per cent in the three other seats. Among the four seats, Dubrajpur and Sainthia are reserved for candidates belonging to scheduled caste.

''In 2019, we performed well in the regions dominated by communities from the scheduled caste. In Birbhum, Dalits form more than 35 per cent of total electorates as scheduled tribe voters have more than 6 per cent electoral stake. So, we are preparing for going all out in Birbhum as the district was a fertile ground for us in the previous general elections,'' said a BJP leader.

Meanwhile, Amit Shah's visit to Matuas' Thakurnagar headquarters in North 24 Parganas is scheduled to take place on Thursday. The followers of the religious sect belong to scheduled caste community, who had migrated from Bangladesh, want the Home Minister to announce deadline of giving them citizenship by implementing the CAA, the promise that the BJP had made before 2019.

Nationwide rail blockade on Feb 18: Farmers

Farmers also will hold events in a show of solidarity on the birth anniversary of Sir Chhotu Ram on February 16

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

FARMER leaders on Wednesday announced 'rail roko' on Feb 18 for four hours across the country as their protests entered the 77th day.

Their decision came following a meeting of the Samyukta Kisan Morcha at the Singhu border near Delhi.

President of the Krantikari Kisan Union Punjab Dr Darshan Pal said four decisions were taken in the meeting to intensify the movement.

"The farmers will resort to a four-hour 'rail roko' on Feb 18 from 12 noon. From Feb 12, all toll plazas in Rajasthan will be made 'toll-free' on the pattern of Punjab and Haryana. On Feb 14, a candle and 'mashaal' march along with other programmes will be organized across the country in memory of the martyred soldiers in the Pulwama attack. And on Feb 16, farmers will show solidarity throughout the country on the birth anniversary of Sir Chhotu Ram,'' said Pal, a senior member of the umbrella organization of various unions.

The All India Kisan Sangharsh Coordination Committee will now work out details of the agitation and coordinate across the country for its implementation, farmer leaders said.

Addressing the farmers at Singhu border, BKU leader Rakesh Tikait said the objective of the protest was not to force a change in power at the Centre but an attempt for a solution to their problems. He said farmer leaders would tour various parts of the country to spread the movement.

"We do not aim for a change in power at the Centre. The government should do its work. We want it to repeal the farm laws and ensure a law on MSP," said Tikait.

He said that the agitation against the farm laws will continue till the Centre addresses the issues.

The farmers are demanding a complete rollback of the new farm reform laws.

Earlier in the day, Bharatiya Kisan Union (BKU) leader Rakesh Tikait asserted that the agitating farmers were not aiming at any change in power at the Centre but a solution to their problems.

Modi's heart beats for billionaires, not for those who toil the soil, says Priyanka

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

LAUNCHING a direct attack on Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Congress general secretary and party's UP-in-charge Priyanka Gandhi Vadra on Wednesday accused him of helping billionaires at the expense of farmers.

"Pradham Mantri ji ka 56 inch ka seena kewal arabaptiyon ke liye dhadakta hai (the 56 inch chest of PM throbs only for the billionaires of the country)," Priyanka said at a kisan mahapanchayat in Saharanpur. "In 1955, Jawaharlal Nehru had made laws against crop hoarding. But this law has been scrapped by the BJP government. This new law will help the arabpatis. They will decide the price of farmers' produce."

Priyanka promised the farmers of UP to scrap the three laws if the Congress came to power. "The three laws are demonic. If voted to power, we will scrap these laws."

Priyanka also charged the PM and other BJP leaders with "insulting" the farmers who were protesting against the laws. She asserted that her party's would stand by the protesting farmers solidly till the laws were repealed.

Wednesday's event is part of the Congress' outreach campaign 'Jai Jawan, Jai Kisan' covering 27 districts of Uttar Pradesh with an eye on the Assembly polls in 2022. The Congress is aiming at the revival of its political fortunes in Uttar Pradesh where it has just one MP —Sonia Gandhi from Rae Bareli — in the Lok Sabha and just seven MLAs, including two rebels, in the UP Assembly.

Dismantling of INS Viraat stayed by SC

NEW DELHI: The Supreme Court on Wednesday stayed the dismantling of INS Viraat and issued notices on a private firm's petition to seek responses from the defence ministry and the firm that bought the decommissioned aircraft carrier in an auction last year.

In July 2019, the Centre had informed Parliament that the decision to release Viraat was taken after due consultation with the Indian Navy.

A bench headed by CJI S A Bobde was hearing a plea by Envitech Marine Consultants Private Limited that sought to convert the warship into a maritime museum and multi-functional adventure centre.

The apex court also agreed to examine the price at which the firm can buy it from Shri Ram Ship Breakers that purchased the ship for ₹38.54 crore in an auction conducted by the Metal Scrap Trade Corporation Limited last year.

The petitioner agreed to purchase the decommissioned ship at ₹100 crore.

INS Viraat was inducted into the Navy in 1987 and decommissioned in 2017. The world's longest serving warship is the second aircraft carrier slated to be broken down in India. In 2014, INS Vikrant was dismantled in Mumbai. ENS

'Evidence planted in Bhima Koregaon case'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

A new forensics report showed that key evidence based on which activists were jailed in the Bhima Koregaon case was planted on a laptop seized by police, according to a US newspaper.

Several of these activists continue to be prison for over two years now.

A report from Arsenal Consulting, a Massachusetts-based digital forensics firm which had examined an electronic copy of the laptop, said an attacker used malware to nfltrate the laptop of activist Rona Wilson. This examination was done at the request of Wilson's lawyers, said the report.

The Pune Police had used letters it found on the laptop as its primary evidence in the chargesheet they filed in the Bhima Koregaon case.

Wilson's laptop was compromised "for just over 22 months", the report said, adding that the attacker's primary goals were "surveillance and incriminating document delivery".

While the Arsenal report has not identified the perpetrator, the newspaper asked three experts to reviewed the document which said the report's conclusions were valid.

The report pointed out that the initial accusations against the activists 'heavily' relied on incriminating letters recovered from electronic devices, especially from Wilson's laptop.

The firm's president Mark Spencer said Arsenal had so far conducted its work on the report on a pro bono basis, it said. "The company was founded in 2009 and has performed digital forensic analysis in other high-profile cases, including the Boston Marathon bombing."

SC accepts NCW petition against skin-to-skin verdict

NEW DELHI: The apex court agreed to examine a plea by the National Commission for Women challenging the Bombay High Court's verdict acquitting a man of sexual assault in a groping case on the grounds that there was no skin-to-skin contact.

The top court asked senior advocate Geeta Luthra, representing NCW, why should the court entertain a separate plea when it has already stayed the verdict and the accused is in jail.

At this, Luthra argued that Section 10 of the NCW Act provides that the Commission should move court if there is either miscarriage of justice or wrong interpretation of law. "If such a perverse interpretation of physical contact is allowed, it will adversely impact the basic rights of women, who are victims of sexual offences in the society and will undermine the beneficial statutory safeguards prescribed under various legislations." ENS

In Bihar, around 1.4 lakh people are diagnosed with cancer every year and only 25 to 30% of them get treatment in the state because of lack of cancer care services. All these facts came out at a seminar organised on the World Cancer Day by the health department. Union minister RK Singh and Bihar health minister Mangal Pandey attended the seminar. Principal health secretary Pratyay Amrit said that the screening-cum-awareness programme in Bihar's 14 districts in collaboration with Homi Bhabha Cancer Hospital and Research Centre has started. Muzaffarpur, Vaishali, Aurangabad, Begusarai, Bhagalpur, Bhojpur, Gaya are among the districts.

EU lawmakers approve $815 bn recovery package

Tackling poverty and climate change among key aims of the deal

BRUSSELS

EUROPEAN lawmakers on Wednesday approved a 672.5 billion euro recovery package of loans and grants to help member states recover faster from the coronavirus pandemic. The regulation for the Recovery and Resilience Facility was adopted with 582 votes in favour, 40 against and 69 abstentions.

The RRF is touted as the central pillar of the bloc's 750 billion euro ($910 billion) recovery plan that was adopted by EU leaders last year.

"In the long-term, this money is going to bring about change and progress to meet our digital and climate goals," said Eider Gardiazabal Rubial, a lawmaker closely involved in the negotiations.

"We will ensure that the measures will alleviate poverty and unemployment, and will take into account the gender dimension of this crisis. Our health systems will also become more resilient."

To receive their share of the money, which is linked to respecting the rule of law, the EU's 27 nations must submit their plans for the funds by the end of April. The funding will be available for three years and EU countries can request up to 13% pre-financing for their recovery and resilience plans.

Each plan has to dedicate at least 37 per cent of its budget to fighting climate change and at least 20% to improving digital access and other actions.

So far, 18 nations have already submitted their draft plans to the European Commission, which is in charge of assessing them. Once evaluated by the EU's executive arm, plans are to be approved on a case by case basis by the European Council, which represents the governments of the 27 individual member countries. The funding will be available for three years and EU countries can request up to 13% pre-financing for their recovery and resilience plans.

Once a proposal allowing the European Commission to borrow on financial markets is ratified by all member nations, the commission expects the first recovery fund payments could be made from mid-2021 AFP

116-year-old French nun oldest to survive Covid-19

PARIS

A 116-year-old French nun (pic) who is believed to be the world's second-oldest person has survived Covid-19 and is looking forward to celebrating her 117th birthday on Thursday.

The Gerontology Research Group, which validates details of people thought to be 110 or older, lists Frenchwoman Lucile Randon — Sister André's birth name—as the second-oldest known living person in the world.

French media report that Sister André tested positive for the virus in mid-January in the southern French city of Toulon. But just three weeks later, the nun is considered recovered. "I didn't even realize I had it," she told French newspaper Var-Matin.

Sister André, who is blind and uses a wheelchair, did not even worry when she received her diagnosis.

"She didn't ask me about her health, but about her habits," David Tavella, the communications manager for the care home where the nun, told the newspaper. "For example, she wanted to know if meal or bedtime schedules would change. She showed no fear of the disease. On the other hand, she was very concerned about the other residents."

Not all of the home's residents shared Sister André's luck. In January, 81 of the 88 residents tested positive for the virus, and about 10 of them died. AFP

Travel curbs may stay on till all get vaccine: UK official

LONDON

RESIDENTS of the United Kingdom may not be allowed to travel abroad until all adults in the country receive a vaccine against Covid-19, a top government official indicated on Wednesday.

"I'm afraid I can't give you a definitive 'will there or will there not be' the opportunity to take holidays," Grant Shapps told Sky News. He urged UK residents not to book summer holidays abroad.

Britain, which was the first western nation to roll out Covid jabs in the general population, is banking on its biggest ever vaccination programme as a way out of a contagion that has killed more than 113,000 people.

Some 12.5 million people have so far been inoculated using either the Pfizer/BioNTech or Oxford/AstraZeneca shots.

Prime Minister Boris Johnson's government has set a target to vaccinate the most vulnerable and at-risk groups by February 15. People who are over 70s are the last cohort in that group of 15 million people to be vaccinated under the plan. Queen Elizabeth II's eldest son Prince Charles, received vaccine on Wednesday

Biden pauses plan to force TikTok's sale

WASHINGTON

A plan to force the sale of TikTok to American investors has been put on hold as the administration of President Joe Biden reviews the security risks of the popular Chinese-owned video app, the Wall Street Journal reported on Wednesday.

The Journal, citing unnamed sources, said the Biden White House had indefinitely shelved the plan to require the sale of TikTok, owned by China's ByteDance, to US tech giant Oracle with Walmart as a retail partner. The plan by former president Donald Trump was driven by concerns that TikTok and other Chinese online services posed security risks because of their ties to the Beijing government.

The Journal said the new administration is in the midst of a review of data security and ways to prevent the information TikTok collects on American users from being accessed by the Chinese government, but that there would be no imminent move to force the sale.

The White House did not directly address the report, but spokeswoman Jen Psaki said, "It's not accurate to suggest that there is a new proactive step by the Biden White House."

Psaki added that there is a "rigorous" review of data security of TikTok by an interagency government panel, with no timetable set.

"I will note broadly speaking that we are comprehensively evaluating the risks... to US data including from TikTok and will address them in a decisive and effective fashion," she said. A Trump administration move to ban downloads of TikTok had been stalled amid legal challenges. TikTok, the wildly popular app with an estimated 100 million US users, has repeatedly defended itself against allegations of data transfers to the Chinese government, saying it stores user information on servers in the United States and Singapore. AFP

EIGHT JUDGES CONVICTED TILL DATE

Since America's founding, House of Representatives lawmakers have impeached 20 people — including Donald Trump and two other presidents — but eight judges are the only officials to have been convicted at trial in the Senate and removed. Here are some notable instances

NO SYMPATHY FOR TRUMP

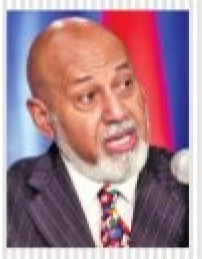
Alcee Hastings has had what must be the singular experience of having both been impeached and voted in US Congress to impeach another official

He was a Miami judge until 1989 when he was found guilty by the Senate of conspiring to get a $150,000 bribe from two reputedly mob-tied defendants seeking a lighter sentence



But Hastings' conviction, which he fiercely contested, did not disqualify him from running for Congress in Florida. He was elected in 1992 and the 84-year-old Democrat is now reportedly the most senior member of the state's congressional delegation

His experience doesn't appear to have made him any more sympathetic toward Trump: Hastings has twice voted to impeach the ex-reality TV star

GETTING SALARY IN PRISON

Despite being found guilty of tax evasion in 1984 and sentenced to two years behind bars, judge Harry Claiborne refused to resign from his post and was still getting his $78,700 per year government salary when he reported to prison

"This placed the US Congress in a difficult position," according to the Senate's website, adding he was impeached, convicted and removed from office in 1986

QUID PRO QUO

- The son of a wealthy businessman got arrested over a 2,200-pound marijuana load in Mississippi and judge Walter Nixon subsequently wound up with some valuable oil and gas well leases
- Prosecutors alleged the connection was Nixon intervening in an attempt to make the case go away on behalf of his friend, the businessman
- Jurors ultimately acquitted Nixon of receiving an illegal gift, but found him guilty of perjury which led to his impeachment and being kicked off the bench by the Senate in 1989

THE CASE OF DRUNKEN JUDGE

- Corruption and lying are frowned upon among officers of the court, but profanity and boozing have drawn fire too
- Judge John Pickering was removed from office in 1804 for drinking on the job and resulting behaviour that was "disgraceful... and degrading to the honor of the United States"

Trump incited mob, revelled in violence: Democrats

WASHINGTON

Senate majority leader Chuck Schumer leaves the chamber on Tuesday | AFP

FORMER US president Donald Trump incited insurrection and "revelled" in violence by supporters storming Congress to try and overturn his election defeat, the chief Democratic impeachment prosecutor said on Wednesday at the former president's Senate trial.

After weeks of inflaming Americans by telling them the election was stolen, Trump became "inciter-in-chief of a dangerous insurrection" at the US Capitol on January 6, lead impeachment manager Jamie Raskin told senators.

"When the violence inexorably and inevitably came, as predicted, and overran this body and the House of Representatives with chaos, we will show you that he completely abdicated his duty," Raskin said. "He revelled in it and he did nothing to help us as commander-in-chief."

Impeachment managers, the equivalent of prosecutors in a regular trial, are expected to take no more than two days to lay out their contention that Trump instigated the rebellion after refusing to accept his November election loss to Democrat Joe Biden.

Unlike Trump's first impeachment trial almost a year ago, which took three weeks, this one is expected to be over quickly.

After a large majority of Republicans voted Tuesday that they consider putting a former president on trial to be unconstitutional, it appears highly unlikely that Democrats can obtain the two-thirds majority in the Senate required for conviction.

On Tuesday the impeachment team gave a preview of their emotionally charged presentation tying the populist real estate tycoon, who is currently holed up in his luxury Florida club, to the January 6 mob. A 13-minute compilation of video clips showed Trump stirring up the crowd which then rampaged through the halls of Congress, seeking to stop certification of Biden's victory. "If that's not an impeachable offense, then there is no such thing," Raskin said.

According to US media reports, Trump was privately furious on Tuesday at his own lawyers' performance. AFP

ASIA MATTERS

Execution of those with mental disorder barred

Pakistan's Supreme Court on Wednesday barred the execution of inmates suffering from mental disorder, observing that carrying out the death sentence does not "meet the ends of justice" if a convict was unable to comprehend the rationale behind the punishment. A five-member bench headed by Justice Manzoor Ahmad Malik passed the order on the appeals of mentally ill death-row prisoners- Kanizan Bibi, Imdad Ali and Ghulam Abbas- who have respectively served 30,18 and 14 years on the death row. The petitioners, who showed symptoms of mental illness, demanded that their sentence be commuted. The court commuted the death sentences of Kanizan Bibi and Imdad Ali to life imprisonment and directed that a fresh mercy petition be filed to the Pakistan President on behalf of Ghulam Abbas.

Indian-origin fraudster jailed for 6 years, 10 months

An Indian-origin conman was sentenced to six years and 10 months in jail in Singapore on Wednesday for running a fake investment scheme and cheating people, including his Indian-origin neighbour, of over Singapore dollars 1 million. Sathish Nair Dhanabalan, 36, would convince his India-origin neighbour Elanngovan Pillai Munisamy, 56, to continue investing each time the "high returns from the investment" were due, The Straits Times reported. As part of the ruse, which took place from 2014 to 2016, Dhanabalan cheated Elanngovan of more than Singapore dollars 2,00,000

Govt allows burial of Covid-19 victims

Sri Lanka will begin giving permission for Muslims who die of Covid-19 to be buried, the prime minister said on Wednesday, following an outcry over a previous ban. Prime Minister Mahinda Rajapaksa gave the assurance in response to a question from a lawmaker in Parliament. Sri Lanka has required the cremation of all people who die from COVID-19, saying the virus in human remains could contaminate underground water. Muslims and non-Muslims have protested the rule over the past year, calling it unscientific and insensitive of Muslim religious beliefs. The United Nations and the United States have also raised concerns with the government. The World Health Organisation and Sri Lankan doctors' groups have said Covid-19 victims can either be buried or cremated

Saudi frees top rights activist amid renewed US pressure

RIYADH

SAUDI authorities on Wednesday released prominent women's rights activist Loujain al-Hathloul after nearly three years in detention, her family said, as the kingdom faces renewed US pressure over its human rights record.

"Loujain is at home!!!!!!!" her sister Lina al-Hathloul wrote on Twitter. Loujain "at home after 1001 days in prison," she added, along with a picture of the freed activist. Hathloul, 31, was arrested in May 2018 with about a dozen other women activists just weeks before the historic lifting of a decades-long ban on female drivers, a reform they had long campaigned for, sparking a torrent of international criticism.

In late December, a Saudi court handed Hathloul a prison term of five years and eight months for terrorism-related crimes, including inciting regime change, but her family said a partially suspended sentence paved the way for her early release. However, the court has banned Hathloul from leaving the kingdom for five years, her relatives said.

The activist's family denounced her trial as a "sham" and "politically motivated".

This verdict, however, was a "face-saving exit strategy" for the Saudi government after it came under severe international pressure to free her, a source close to Hathloul's family said. AFP

Aus, NZ on alert over Pacific tsunami

SYDNEY

A 7.7-magnitude earthquake struck in the South Pacific on Thursday, generating a tsunami that threatened island nations in the region.

The quake struck at just after midnight on Thursday local time (1850 IST) about 415 kilometres (258 miles) east of Vao in New Caledonia at a depth of 10 kilometres, according to the US Geological Survey.

It said waves reaching between 0.3 and one metre above the tide level were possible for Fiji, New Zealand and Vanuatu. A wave of 0.3 metres struck Fiji, according to the Twitter feed of the island nation's seismology department. It provided no further details. The Australian Bureau of Meteorology also confirmed in a tweet that a tsunami had been generated. "Tsunami confirmed," the Australian Bureau of Meteorology tweeted, as it warned of a threat to Lord Howe Island, which is about 550 kilometers east of Australia's mainland. The New Zealand National Emergency Management Agency released a statement telling people in coastal areas to move away from waterfronts.

"We expect New Zealand coastal areas to experience strong and unusual currents and unpredictable surges at the shore following a magnitude 7.7 earthquake," the disaster agency said.

"People in or near the sea in the following areas should move out of the water, off beaches and shore areas and away from harbours, rivers and estuaries."

The affected areas included the far north of New Zealand's north island, the Great Barrier Island east of Auckland and a stretch of coast along the country's east.

There were no initial reports of casualties or damage from the tsunami or the quake, which was initially recorded by USGS at magnitude 7.5 before being revised to 7.7.

On Wednesday, another strong undersea earthquake shook western Indonesia, but no injuries were immediately reported. The US Geological Survey said the magnitude 6.2 quake struck at a depth of 10 kilometres and was centered 217 kilometers (135 miles) south-southwest of Bengkulu city in Bengkulu province on the southwestern side of Sumatra island.

No tsunami warning was issued by the Indonesian Meteorology, Climatology and Geophysics Agency and no casualties were immediately reported. The Pacific "Ring of Fire", where tectonic plates collide, experiences frequent seismic and volcanic activity.

In 2018, a 7.5-magnitude quake and subsequent tsunami on Indonesia's Sulawesi island left more than 4,300 people dead or missing.

A 9.1-magnitude quake struck off the coast of Indonesia's Sumatra island in 2004, triggering a tsunami that killed 220,000 throughout the region. The death toll included around 1,70,000 in Indonesia. AFP

Houthi drone strikes Saudi airport, jetliner set ablaze

YANGON

A civilian plane was engulfed in flames on Wednesday after Yemen's Houthi rebels launched a drone strike on an airport in southern Saudi Arabia, days after the US moved to delist the insurgents as terrorists.

Saudi authorities did not immediately report any casualties from the attack, claimed by the Houthis, the latest in a series of rebel assaults on the kingdom despite a renewed American push to de-escalate the six-year conflict.

"A cowardly criminal terrorist attack launched against Abha International Airport in Saudi Arabia by the Houthi militia," state-run Al-Ekhbariya television quoted the Riyadh-led military coalition battling the rebels as saying.

"A fire that engulfed a passenger plane due to the Houthi attack on Abha Airport is under control," it added.

The coalition did not say how the attack was carried out, but earlier in the day reported that it had intercepted two "booby trapped" drones in the south.

The Iran-backed Houthis, who control much of northern Yemen, said they had struck Abha airport with four drones. Yahya Sarie, spokesman for the Houthis' armed wing, claimed the airport was used to launch attacks on Yemen. AFP

Exporters ask FinMin to take a relook at Budget proposals

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Federation of Indian Export Organisations (FIEO), the apex body of the export industry, has asked the finance ministry to take a relook at some of the "harsh and draconian" provisions related to exporters in Budget 2021. The association has highlighted provisions such as those allowing confiscating of goods for wrongful claims as having a serious bearing on exports.

According to the Budget, a sub-section is proposed to be inserted in Section 113, which states that goods would be liable for confiscation if products entered for exportation under claims of remission or refund of any duty make a 'wrongful claim' in contravention of the Act. "The word 'wrongful claim' is subject to various interpretations and will put exporters at the mercy of field formations even if the remission rates are wrongly calculated or dispute about classification of the product under a particular rate arises," said FIEO president Sharad Kumar Saraf. He also demanded an immediate announcement of rates under the RoDTEP (remission of duties and taxes on export products) scheme since exporters are not able to finalise their contracts.

According to the FIEO, the Finance Bill has also amended the Section 16 of the IGST Act withdrawing the facility of exports on payment of IGST (Integrated Goods and Services Tax) as originally envisaged in the law.

Most of the exporters were availing the IGST payment facility as the mechanism of refund was entirely seamless without any transaction cost, he claimed. "If the IGST system was functioning seamlessly and was the preferred option for the exporters, there was no need to dispense with such option," Saraf said, adding that if there are any challenges faced by the tax authorities, it should be discussed so that an amicable solution is found.

Exporters claim multitude of woes

- FIEO says many exporters still awaiting payment of claims for 2019-20 and 2020-21 (up to December 2020) both for MEIS and SEIS schemes
- Claims Finance Bill has amended the Section 16 of the IGST Act withdrawing the facility of exports on payment of IGST (Integrated Goods and Services Tax) as originally envisaged in the GST laws

'Government committed to implementing new farm laws'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AMIDST the backdrop of still ongoing farmers' protest surrounding the National Capital Region, the Government of India's principal economic adviser Sanjeev Sanyal said on Wednesday that the government is committed to implement farm laws as it is beneficial for small farmers.

"We removed a lot of unnecessary regulations... Same thing we did with farm laws. These laws have been debated for 20-30 years ... there may be some adjustment needed to make it more smooth for certain segments of the farmers but overall we remain committed to implementing these farm laws in spirit because they are good particularly for small farmers," Sanyal said.

The government's economic advisor was speaking at a virtual conference organised by Public Affairs Forum of India.

The government had, in September last year, brought three laws—Farmers' Produce Trade and Commerce (Promotion and Facilitation) Act, 2020, the Farmers (Empowerment and Protection) Agreement on Price Assurance and Farm Services Act, 2020 and the Essential Commodities (Amendment) Act, 2020. These three laws have been projected by the Centre as part of major reforms in the agriculture sector that will remove middlemen and allow farmers to sell their produce anywhere in the country.

However, the protesting farmers have expressed their apprehension that the new laws would pave the way for eliminating the safety cushion of the MSP and do away with the mandi (wholesale market) system, leaving them at the mercy of big corporates.

Sanyal clarified that existing mandis are not going to disappear but that they would remain in existence and compete with others.

HINDALCO

HNDL is our preferred non-ferrous pick owing to (a) its robust volume growth outlook in both India and Novelis, (b) strong primary Aluminum business profitability given its low-cost integrated aluminum operations in India (in the top quartile globally) and higher LME, (c) solid FCF generation, which should reduce leverage sharply, and (d) reasonable valuations. The outlook for Novelis is positive due to resilience in the Beverage Can business and recovery in Auto demand.

The FIR pertained to an 'ATM Kiosk brand' which was installed by the crypto startup in a Bengaluru mall in 2018, allegedly without obtaining the requisite permission. # SBI plans big home loan drive, eyes doubling biz

Bank aims to double its home loan portfolio within the next 5 years

SESA SEN @ New Delhi

STATE Bank of India (SBI), India's largest lender, is looking to scale up its home loan business in a big way, cashing in on the demand from the younger population and leveraging low interest rates. The public sector bank, which took a decade to grow its mortgage portfolio to ₹5 lakh crore from ₹89,000 crore in 2011, is now aiming to touch the ₹10 lakh crore-mark in the next five years.

"The home loan book is now the single-largest portfolio in the asset base of SBI. When it comes to demand, every third borrower happens to be from SBI. We have seen that 42 per cent of our customers are under the age of 40 or below and we expect to see a much greater shift in this direction," said Dinesh Kumar Khara, chairman, SBI. Currently, SBI dominates the home loan segment with a 33 per cent market share and a portfolio of ₹4.84 lakh crore as on December 31, 2020. It is also looking to increase its share of retail in the overall loan book to 45 per cent in one year from 39 per cent now.

SBI offers home loans at an external benchmark rate of 6.65 per cent, the cheapest in the industry. Loans in the range of ₹30-32 lakh are popular and the bank has seen more demand coming from places other than the top eight cities, Khara said, adding that almost 23 per cent of the ₹5 lakh crore home loan portfolio comprised takeover loans. He also added that very few of its home loan customers opted for the one-time restructuring scheme.

"About 72 per cent of our borrowers are salaried and we do not see any stress in the home loan portfolio. Of the 39 lakh borrowers who were eligible for loan restructuring under the RBI-approved scheme that was allowed after the six-month moratorium facility got over in August, only 10,000 have availed the option, which is aggregating to about ₹2,500 crore," Khara said. The gross non-performing assets (NPA) in the home loan division are 0.68 per cent of the total loan book.

The greater push for the home loan business comes at a time when the industry is betting on mortgage lending as the next big boom. Khara added that a new retail loan management system is also being put in place.

HIGH INTENSITY BIDDING EXPECTED IN CERTAIN 4G BANDS

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

WITH all three major private sector telecom service providers having filed applications for participation in the upcoming 4G spectrum auctions in March, analysts expect the bidding to be the most competitive in 4G bandwidths that have the capability to eventually offer 5G services.

While the 3300-3600 Mhz band officially earmarked for 5G services has been left out of this round of auctions, over 2,300 MHz of airwaves is going under the hammer with an aggregate reserve price of ₹3.92 lakh crore. Analysts expect the government to sell far less (at around ₹50,000 crore), spectrum in certain bands are expected to see highly competitive bidding.

Bank of America Securities (BofA Securities) believes that the 2300 MHz band will see high bidding intensity since Jio, Airtel, and even Vi to a lesser extent, are all expected to bid for those assets. "We consider the upcoming spectrum auction to be an event which could help Jio and Bharti fortify their 5G positioning by acquiring good magnitude of 1800 and 2300 MHz (bands that could be used for 5G). Conversely, we do not expect Vodafone Idea to be in a position to bid for 5G bands given its weak balance sheet," it said.

The DoT has also lowered reserve prices for the 800 MHz band that had remained unsold in 15 out of 19 circles during the last spectrum auctions in 2016. According to ICICI Securities, the final reserve price for 800 MHz spectrum is 18.5 per cent lower than the October 2016 auction price, which should benefit the relevant operators. BofA Securities also says "the larger quantum of spectrum acquired by Jio/Bharti may surprise the market". "Senior management is likely to think long-term," it said.

₹3.92 lakh crore of spectrum on offer

Spat between builders, cement makers ramps up over price hike

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE tussle between manufacturers of construction inputs such as cement and steel and builders is intensifying, with both sides trading charges of faulty trade practices. Condemning the proposed strike by Builders Association of India (BAI) on February 12, the South India Cement Manufacturers Association (SICMA) alleged that builders were spreading "misinformation" on cement prices to take advantage of the economic recovery and increase real estate prices, which are already at unaffordable levels.

SICMA has also written to Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman to "look into profiteering being done by builders". On the other hand, the builders have alleged that cement prices have been increased from ₹280 a bag to ₹420, forcing them to stop many of their projects. Nearly 60,000 builders and construction workers are expected to participate in the strike slated for February 12.

SICMA, however, argued that across markets, builders access cement at the rate of ₹6,000 per tonne or below, which means cement accounts for only ₹150 a sq ft of a built-up area. "How can cement prices impact the increase in their flat construction cost?," rued SICMA.

Responding to BAI's claims that the price of cement has gone up, SICMA said the CAGR of the price in the past five years has remained flat. "It is their (builders) intent to take higher input credit of GST by giving non genuine bills," said SICMA. It also questioned why builders are not reducing prices and selling off inventory instead of holding on to in a "cartelised" manner.

CCI action against cement industry

The Competition Commission of India had earlier come down heavily on cement companies, many of whom saw their offices being raided in December 2020 as part of a fresh probe against price cartelisation. In 2016, the CCI had slapped a fine of `6,700 crore on 11 cement makers,

CCEA approves grant to keep Assam's BVFCL urea units running

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Cabinet Committee on Economic Affairs (CCEA) on Wednesday approved a proposal to give a ₹100 crore grant-in-aid to Assam-based state-run Brahmaputra Valley Fertilizer Corporation Ltd (BVFCL) for sustaining the operation of its urea manufacturing units.

"The grant-in-aid of ₹100 crore to BVFCL will restore the urea production capacity of 3.90 lakh tonne per annum and ensure timely availability of urea to the tea industry and farming sector in the entire North Eastern region specially Assam," the government said in a statement. "It will also continue the existing employment of about 580 employees on a permanent basis and another 1,500 persons on an ad-hoc basis," it added. Around 28,000 people get benefits indirectly through this establishment.

According to the Centre, the company is currently operating two vintage plants at Namrup in Assam. "Despite being the first gas based urea manufacturing unit in India and having all the infrastructure and feedstock availability, it has been difficult to maintain reasonable production levels from the existing units in a cost effective manner because of their old and obsolete technology," it said, adding that in order to ensure their safe operation, certain equipment and machineries need to be replaced.

GAIL Q3 net profit up 19% on higher petrochem biz

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

NATURAL gas major GAIL (India) Ltd on Wednesday reported a sharp 19 per cent increase in its third quarter net profit, with the rise in its petrochemical margins offsetting the company's losses from the gas marketing segment. According to details filed with the stock exchanges, the firm posted a net profit of ₹1,487.33 crore during the October-December period (Q3FY21)—19 per cent more than the ₹1,250.65 crore recorded in the corresponding period of the previous year.

GAIL's had a bad quarter in the natural gas marketing segment, falling into the red with a loss of ₹73.70 crore compared to a pre-tax profit of ₹466.52 crore the previous year.

However, its petrochemical business swung into the black with a pre-tax profit of ₹434.08 crore for Q3FY21, making up for its losses in the gas marketing business. In the corresponding quarter of the previous year, the company had seen a loss of ₹8.51 crore in the petrochemical segment.

Gas transportation, the mainstay of the company, saw little growth with business remaining flat, as was the case with the LPG and liquid hydrocarbons business. GAIL recorded a 13 per cent increase in over turnover for the period at ₹15,386 crore. "Both physical, as well as the financial performance of the company, improved further across all major segments in Q3 as compared to Q2 FY21," the company said.

HINDALCO PROFITS JUMP 77% IN Q3

Hindalco Industries on Wednesday reported a consolidated profit after tax (PAT) of `1,877 crore, up 77 per cent YoY, and a nearly five-fold sequential increase. The results were driven by a strong performance by Novelis and India aluminium business, the company said. In consolidated terms, revenue from operation was up 20 per cent YoY to `34,958 crore and business EBITDA stood at `5,242 crore, up 40 per cent.

EICHER MOTORS NET UP 7% TO ₹533 CRORE

Eicher Motors on Wednesday posted a 6.79 per cent increase in its consolidated net profit after tax at `532.59 crore for the third quarter ended December 31, 2020, on the back of steady growth across business verticals. The company had reported `498.70 crore during the October-December period of 2019-20 fiscal. Total consolidated revenue from operations rose to `2,828.26 crore as compared with `2,371.01 crore in the year-ago period.

Bank of India net profit up over five-fold to ₹541 crore

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

BANK of India (BoI) on Wednesday reported a net profit of ₹541 crore for the quarter ended December, an over five-fold jump from a year ago, due to lower provisions. The Mumbai-headquartered public sector bank posed a net profit of ₹106 crore a year ago.

Total provisioning, including towards bad and doubtful assets, standard assets, and depreciation on investments, fell 51 per cent to ₹1,980 crore. Within the category, BoI stepped up provisions towards standard assets at ₹1,066 crore from ₹89 crore a year ago. Provisions for non-performing assets (NPAs), however, tumbled 83.5 per cent to ₹623 crore for the period.

"The bank continues to be proactive and prudent in provisioning over and above the regulatory mandate... We are aiming for a recovery of almost ₹2,500 crore in the fourth quarter (₹1,495 crore in the third quarter), excluding big NBFC accounts where resolution is in advanced stage," said Atanu Kumar Das, MD & CEO.

Gross NPAs of advances declined to 13.25 per cent as of December-end 2020 as against 13.79 per cent as of September-end 2020. Net NPA position improved to 2.46 per cent of net advances as of December-end 2020 against 2.89 per cent as of September 2020. With proforma slippages, adjusted for the SC's interim order on asset classification, the gross and Net NPA ratios would have been 14.59 per cent and 3.73 per cent, respectively.

SpiceJet net loss narrows to ₹57 crore as cargo business improves

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

SPICEJET on Wednesday reported a net loss of ₹57 crore for the quarter ending December 31, 2020 as against a loss of ₹112.6 crore in the previous quarter. The private carrier had reported a profit of ₹78 crore in the corresponding quarter of last year (Q3FY20).

According to details filed with the stock exchanges, SpiceJet's total revenue from operations for the period fell by a sharp 53.7 per cent to ₹1,691 crore from ₹3,656 crore in the corresponding period of the previous year. Ajay Singh, CMD, SpiceJet, said, "The pandemic has, undoubtedly, been the biggest crisis to hit the aviation industry and we are confident that things will only get better for us from now on. We have successfully managed to trim down our losses considerably with each passing quarter despite limited operations and muted demand."

SpiceJet said it continues to engage with Boeing to recover damages incurred due to the grounding of the MAX line and its re-induction. It also witnessed sequential increase of 36 per cent in its cargo business, cargo revenue up nearly six-fold year-on-year. "With our cargo business proving its true potential, the passenger business getting back on track and a tight control on costs, we have managed to reduce our losses," Singh said.

Rifle ace Divyansh triumphs with WR mark

Olympic quota holders Divyansh Singh Panwar, Saurabh Chaudhary, Chinki Yadav and Tejaswini Sawant were among winners on Day 2 of the national shooting trials (T3 & T4) in New Delhi. The standout of the day was Divyansh, as he scored 253.1 in men's 10m air rifle final to finish as No 1 in T4 trials. That tally is better than existing WR mark of of 252.8.

HIDDEN BELOW THE SURFACE

To eliminate toss factor in deciding outcome of game, nature of strip for second Test could favour spinners

VENKATA KRISHNA B @Chennai

'A TYPICAL Chepauk pitch'.

It is common to keep hearing these words ahead of a Test in the city. In fact, in the lead up to Tests here, even reporters are used to ask players if they expect the pitch to behave in the 'typical Chepauk way'. Some agree. Some say 'it is hard to judge'. Some call it 'dry'. Some, like Joe Root, call it 'not the prettiest one I have ever seen'.

It is quite possible that these days, nobody knows what the typical Chepauk pitch is. Former players recall a typical Chepauk pitch as one that has turn and bounce, with its red soil content. This pitch ultimately breaks up as the Test progresses. But these characteristics are hard to see these days.

The 2013 Test against Australia came close in terms of having the bounce, but it wasn't consistent. In 2016, a high-scoring Test was heading for a draw before England collapsed in a manner only they could, losing 10 wickets under two sessions on a flat deck.

The first Test had all the hallmarks of a high-scoring draw with the pitch not deteriorating as expected, but it still ended up producing a result. However, the slowness of the surface hasn't been to India's liking.

2015-like turners?

It is why all things indicate a turner for the second Test starting on Saturday. In that sense, the indications are that the pitch could be similar to the ones India played against South Africa in 2015, where two Tests ended in three days. That means England's pace attack led by James Anderson could be neutralised and it will come down to the spinners.

Now, the word turner can easily be misinterpreted as an under-prepared pitch where it begins to take turn from Day 1. To ensure it takes turn, curators usually stop watering the strip couple of days ahead of the match. They leave it exposed to the sun so that it starts breaking up as early as possible.

The first Test had all the hallmarks of a high-scoring draw with the pitch not deteriorating as expected, but it still ended up producing a result

While toss played a huge role in the first Test and it is likely the case on most pitches at home, India believe it shouldn't determine the outcome as much as it did here. It isn't as if India are the only side that has had issues with the pitch while playing here. Tamil Nadu are quite used to this in Ranji Trophy. These days they play in Chepauk only towards the fag end of their season, where a favourable result is needed. And invariably, they have played on turners where it is a 50:50 chance for both the teams.

Ahead of the first Test, the pitch had plenty of grass which was eventually shaved off. Had it been retained, it would have assisted the seamers significantly on the first morning. India have been at the receiving end of such pitches, although this current bunch isn't used to those. Remember Ahmedabad 2008 where India were bowled out in the first session on a green, lively track against South Africa.

Abhinav Mukund, who has played at Chepauk for over a decade, had this to say about the pitch on Twitter: "If you leave a lot of water on the wicket, it becomes too damp for the first session and is a dream to bat on days 2 and 3. So the only way we could counter it was to prepare a pitch that would turn from ball 1. I strongly believe it took the toss out of the picture."

Since 2002, the centre square consisting eight pitches has been relaid multiple times. After clay-soil content contributed to low bounce, TNCA went back to red soil in 2014, but still the bounce is missing.

Critics point out that the constant relaying of the square means it has never been allowed to settle. But the search for 'the typical Chepauk pitch' continues.

Accidental athlete Sunil inches closer to dream

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

ATHLETE Sunil Dawar is on a medal-winning spree. After shattering a meet record (1500m) and pocketing two gold (1500m and 5000m) at the 18th National Federation Cup Juniors (U20) Athletics Championships in Bhopal last month, the 19-year-old Madhya Pradesh athlete did a double, finishing first in the same events at the National Junior Athletics Championships in Guwahati on Monday. By doing so, Dawar also shattered a 24-year-old national record in U-20 men's 5000m.

But becoming a track and field athlete was a far-fetched thought when Sunil started running in 2017. The only thing in his mind at that time was to clear the army recruitment test so that he could carry forward the legacy of Tanda Barud, a nondescript village in Khargone district of MP.

"Our village is known for sending youths to the Indian army. Around 80 people from our village are in the army. I too had the same dream of serving the country by joining the army which is why I started running so that I can clear the physical tests during the recruitment drive," Sunil said.

A medal at the 2017 National School Games, however, changed his life. "I saw him in the school nationals and asked him to appear for a trial being organised to select trainees for MP State Athletics Academy," informed SK Prasad, the academy's athletics coach. Since joining the academy in 2018, Dawar has not looked back, winning medals at national and international meets, including a silver in the 5000m at the 13th South Asian Games in Kathmandu in 2019.

Given his modest background, Sunil, who belongs to Barela tribe (listed as a scheduled tribe in MP) used to help his father Bilar Singh Dawar in the fields. Initially, he played cricket but decided to switch to athletics. "After joining the state academy, I realised my potential. Earlier, the aim was to join the army by clearing the physical tests. I still can fulfil my dream but not at the cost of my sporting career," said Sunil.

Sunil has won nine gold, two silver and a bronze since 2018. He even underwent a bone test soon after his double medal haul in Bhopal. He came clean but was asked to take the age test again after winning two medals in Guwahati. The report of the recent test is still awaited but it cannot stop Sunil from dreaming big.

Djokovic, Serena win; other aces lose

AFP @Melbourne

EIGHT-TIME champion Novak Djokovic was made to sweat at the Australian Open on Wednesday as Serena Williams made serene progress in her bid for a record-equalling 24th Grand Slam title.

Women's favourite Naomi Osaka also charged through but fellow major winners Stan Wawrinka, Bianca Andreescu and Petra Kvitova were all second-round casualties.

Among the late matches, Aussie crowd-pleaser Nick Kyrgios served underarm, smashed a racquet and rowed with the chair umpire before coming from behind to beat France's Ugo Humbert in five gripping sets.

Earlier, Djokovic was given a stern examination by American Frances Tiafoe and dropped his first set of the tournament before recovering to win 6-3, 6-7 (3), 7-6 (2), 6-3.

"I was fortunate to get through the third set today, it was anybody's game," said the defending champion, after his win in hot conditions in Rod Laver Arena.

Osaka, whose three Grand Slam titles include the 2019 Australian crown, had no such trouble in her evening match against France's Caroline Garcia — despite fearing defeat after a bad dream.

"Last night I had a dream that I lost this match, and I really didn't feel good about it," she said after the 6-2, 6-3 win.

Williams, 39, continued her quest to equal Margaret Court's all-time mark of 24 Grand Slams with a 6-3, 6-0 romp past 99th-ranked Serbian Nina Stojanovic.

Bops-McLachlan pair out

Rohan Bopanna and his Japanese partner, Ben McLachlan, bowed out in the first round. They lost 4-6, 6-7 (0) to the Korean wild card pair of Nam Jisung and Min-Kyu Song.

The Indian didn't have the ideal build up the year's first Major. He had to spend 14 days in hard quarantine after a person in his flight to Melbourne had tested positive.

Honestly, I don't know how I did that. I don't even know what to say, I'm lost for words. That is one of the craziest matches I've ever played.

LIÉVIN: Gudaf Tsegay broke the women's world record for the indoor 1500 metres after posting a time of three minutes, 53.09 seconds during a meeting in Lievin. Ethiopian Tsegay beat by more than two seconds the previous record set by her compatriot Genzebe Dibaba in Karlsruhe in 2014. American Grant Holloway ran the second fastest time ever in the men's 60m hurdles, registering 7.32sec.

Sting in tail as Chennaiyin lose to Jamshedpur

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

A late own goal from Enes Sipovic handed Chennaiyin FC a 0-1 loss against Jamshedpur FC in the Indian Super League at the GMC Stadium Bambolim on Wednesday. It was their sixth defeat of the campaign and might just be the final nail in the coffin for their hopes of making the knockout stages.

Chennaiyin remain eighth with 17 points. With three matches left, Csaba Laszlo's team not only need to win all three but will have to depend on the result of other teams. The narrow win was a huge boost for Jamshedpur as they climbed to sixth with 21 points from 17 games.

Owen Coyle knows a thing or two about making the knockouts from an improbable situation when he achieved the feat with the Marina Machans last season. It looks like he could be well on his way to repeating the same feat with his new club.

Chennaiyin's Thoi Singh had a chance to seal all three points right at the death but surprisingly he tried to pass to Lallianzuala Chhangte instead of taking the shot on. And football can be a cruel game and it was again on display as 20 seconds later, David Grande's shot took a wicket deflection off Sipovic and it flew into the net.

'Neymar left Barca to be the best'

MARTIN JOSEPH @Kochi

WHEN FC Barcelona and Paris Saint-Germain lock horns in the UEFA Champions League next week, it will spark a storyline that has been playing out in world football for quite some time. There were always going to be question marks over who was going to take over the mantle from Lionel Messi at Barcelona when the Argentine wizard eventually leaves Camp Nou. While that question is all the more pertinent right now, it seems like the Catalan giants had the answer right in front of them.

Neymar Jr was establishing himself as one of the best footballers in the world alongside Messi when he shook the footballing world by agreeing to a world-record transfer move to Ligue 1 side PSG in 2017. While Neymar reached last season's Champions League final with PSG and has been picking up domestic titles for fun, the move is still being questioned by many.

Former Brazil and Olympique Lyon midfielder Juninho Pernambucano had recently suggested that Neymar was motivated by money more than anything else. However, former Real Madrid and Sevilla player Julio Baptista, who is currently a La Liga ambassador, felt that his countryman was fuelled by a different kind of ambition. "I don't think it's necessarily like that. I think all players have a right to feel important hey have these challenges. Their professional careers are full of challenges," said Baptista while speaking during a virtual interaction arranged by La Liga on Wednesday.

The 39-year-old who has played alongside superstars knows that they are sparked by the desire to be the best.

"As for Neymar, one of the things that he is missing would be the World Cup and also to be the best player in the world. I think he left Barca to be able to try and have these different options."

Deer native to India starve to death in Hawaii

Axis deer, a species native to India presented as a gift from Hong Kong to the king of Hawaii in 1868, have fed hunters and their families on the rural island of Molokai for generations. But for the community of about 7,500, where self-sustainability is a way of life, the invasive deer are both a cherished food source and a danger to their island ecosystem

Hundreds dead

Now, drought on Molokai has brought the problem into focus. Hundreds of deer have died from starvation, stretching thin the island's limited resources

2 YEARS

The drought is among the island's worst in recent memory and has been going on for nearly two years

Checks and balances

In India, axis deer are kept in check by tigers and leopards. But with no natural predators on Molokai, the population has exploded, and there now are an estimated 50,000 to 70,000 deer on the 673 square kilometre island in the Hawaiian Islands archipelago

INVASIVE SPECIES

Residents have a hard time controlling the population by hunting alone. And the animals, in desperate search for food and water, are destroying crops and forest watershed that people rely on for food and water

When the deer devour fruits, vegetables and other plants, it leads to erosion and runoff into the ocean that alters the island's coral reef — another important food source

KILLING THE HABITAT

The reefs around Molokai are getting more runoff and sedimentation than expected and at least part of it is caused by erosion from the deer, said Greg Asner, a Hawaii-based marine ecologist. Sedimentation that settles on the coral can kill it, said Asner, who heads Arizona State University's Center for Global Discovery and Conservation Science. "Fish, invertebrates like crabs, lobsters, you name it — they all rely on that same habitat."

Population control

Options for controlling the deer population include more hunting, aerial sniping and fencing that protects certain areas. Sterilising deer is difficult and expensive, and no one wants to poison or eradicate them

2 spacecraft enter Mars orbit

A US rover is also set to join the Chinese & UAE vessels soon in busy week for Red Planet

ASTRONOMY

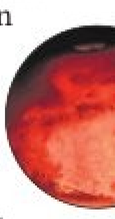
BEIJING: A Chinese spacecraft went into orbit around Mars on Wednesday on an expedition to land a rover on the surface and scout for signs of ancient life, authorities announced in a landmark step in the country's most ambitious deep-space mission yet.

The arrival of Tianwen-1 after a journey of seven months and nearly 300 million miles (475 million kilometers) is part of an unusual burst of activity at Mars: A spacecraft from the United Arab Emirates swung into orbit around the red planet late on Tuesday, and a US rover is set to arrive next week. China's space agency said the five-ton combination orbiter and rover fired its engine to reduce its speed, allowing it to be captured by Mars' gravity.

"Entering orbit has been successful ... making it our country's first artificial Mars satellite," the agency announced.



The mission is bold even for a space program that has racked up a steady stream of achievements and brought prestige to China's ruling Communist Party.

If all goes as planned, the rover will separate from the spacecraft in a few months and touch down safely on Mars, making China only the second nation to pull off such a feat. The rover, a solar-powered vehicle about the size of a golf cart, will collect data on underground water and look for evidence that the planet may have once harbored microscopic life.

Tianwen, the title of an ancient poem, means "Quest for Heavenly Truth."

Landing a spacecraft on Mars is notoriously difficult. Smashed Russian and European spacecraft litter the landscape along with a failed U.S. lander. About a dozen orbiters missed the mark. In 2011, a Mars-bound Chinese orbiter that was part of a Russian mission didn't make it out of Earth orbit.

Only the U.S. has successfully touched down on Mars — eight times, beginning with two Viking missions in the 1970s. An American lander and rover are in operation today.

China's attempt will involve a parachute, rocket firings and airbags. Its proposed landing site is a vast, rock-strewn plain called Utopia Planitia, where the U.S. Viking 2 lander touched down in 1976.

Before the arrival this week of the Chinese spacecraft and the UAE's orbiter, six other spacecraft were already operating around Mars: three U.S., two European and one Indian.

All three of the latest missions were launched in July to take advantage of the close alignment between Earth and Mars that happens only once every two years. A NASA rover is aiming for a Feb 18 landing.

Astra jabs can be used for over-65s, variants: WHO

MEDICINE

GENEVA: WHO vaccine experts said Wednesday the AstraZeneca-Oxford Covid-19 vaccine could be used for people aged over 65, and also in settings where variants of the virus are circulating.

The 15-member Strategic Advisory Group of Experts on Immunization (SAGE) issued a range of interim recommendations for when and how to use the two-shot vaccine, which has yet to receive emergency use authorisation from the World Health Organization.

The announcement came after the vaccine has suffered several setbacks, raising questions about whether it was appropriate to use it for older people, or in places where a variant of the virus first found in South Africa is circulating.

SAGE chief Alejandro Cravioto acknowledged that there was a lack of data on the efficacy of the vaccine for people over the age of 65, which has prompted a number of countries to recommend against its use in older people.

But, he told journalists, "we feel that the response of this group cannot be any different from groups of a younger age".

SAGE, he said, recommends "for the vaccine to be used for 18 years and above without an upper age limit." SAGE advises the WHO on overall global vaccine policies and strategies.

Holocaust row takes new turn

HISTORY

A Polish court on Tuesday ordered two leading Holocaust historians to apologise to the descendant of a village mayor they said may have been implicated in a massacre of Jews. But Warsaw judge Ewa Konczyk said Barbara Engelking, chair of Poland's International Auschwitz Council, and Jan Grabowski from the University of Ottawa will not have to pay a fine. The defamation trial has raised questions about the freedom to research Poland's World War II past and has prompted international outrage including from the Yad Vashem Holocaust memorial. The researchers co-edited a book Night Without End that documented cases of complicity of Catholic Poles in the genocide of Jews during the Nazi occupation.

Future of algorithms

TECHNOLOGY

Twitter CEO jack Dorsey has emphasised on decentralising social media platforms, saying that the company is working on to give more people choice around what relevance algorithms they're using and ranking algorithms they're using. Dorsey said Twitter would benefit by having access to "a much larger corpus of conversation" from which it can surface relevant content to users. "You can imagine an app store like VU, our ranking algorithms that give people optimal flexibility in terms of how they see it," he said. "You can imagine a more market-driven and marketplace approach to algorithms." Twitter is working on a decentralised social network for more than a year under a project named Bluesky.

S Africa to use J&J vaccine, seeks to sell or swap Astra shots

MEDICINE

JOHANNESBURG: South Africa will give the unapproved Johnson & Johnson vaccine to its front-line health workers beginning next week as a study to see what protection it provides from COVID-19, particularly against the variant dominant there, the health minister said Wednesday.

Zweli Mkhize said South Africa has scrapped plans to use the Oxford-AstraZeneca vaccine because it "does not prevent mild to moderate disease" of the variant.

The one-shot J&J vaccine is still being tested internationally and has not been approved in any country.

But Mkhize, in a nationally broadcast address, declared that the vaccine is safe, relying on tests of 44,000 people done in South Africa, the United States and Latin America.

The J&J vaccine will be used to launch the first phase of South Africa's campaign in which the country's 1.25 million health workers will be inoculated, he said, adding that the workers will be closely monitored.

"The Johnson & Johnson vaccine has been proven effective against the 501Y.V2 variant and the necessary approval processes for use in South Africa are underway," he said. The J&J vaccine has been in clinical tests in South Africa and is in production here.

Those shots will be followed by a campaign to vaccinate an estimated 40 million people in South Africa by the end of the year. The country will also be using the Pfizer vaccine and others, possibly including the Russian Sputnik V, Chinese Sinopharm and Moderna vaccines, Mkhize said.

South Africa had purchased 1.5 million doses of the AstraZeneca vaccine, produced by the Serum Institute of India, and the first million doses arrived this month. The first shots had been meant for health workers. Officials are considering selling or swapping the AstraZeneca shots with countries. "Depending on their advice, the vaccine will be swapped before the expiry date," Mkhize said, adding that "there are already countries who are asking to sell it to them".

We were over-confident, late with vaccine: EU

MEDICINE

BRUSSELS: The EU Commission chief said on Wednesday that the bloc's much-criticised Covid-19 vaccine rollout could be partly blamed on the EU being over-optimistic, over-confident and plainly "late."

European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen defended the EU's overall approach of trying to beat the pandemic with a unified vaccine plan for its 27 nations, even if she admitted mistakes in the strategy to quickly obtain sufficient vaccines for its 447 million citizens.

"We are still not where we want to be. We were late to authorize. We were too optimistic when it came to massive production and perhaps we were too confident that, what we ordered, would actually be delivered on time," von der Leyen told the EU parliament. On the vaccine authorisation, which left the EU three weeks behind Britain in starting its vaccination campaign, von der Leyen promised action.

She said the EU would launch a clinical trial network.

Pandemic's psychological impact

RESEARCH

A new survey of children in Germany suggests that the stress and depravations of the coronavirus pandemic are taking a toll on their mental health, especially among those from underprivileged families, researchers said Wednesday. The study by the University Medical Center Hamburg-Eppendorf found about one in three German children are suffering from pandemic-related anxiety, depression or are exhibiting psychosomatic symptoms like headaches or stomach aches. Children and teenagers from poorer families and those with migrant roots are disproportionally affected, according to the study. "Children who were doing well before the pandemic and feel sheltered and comfortable within their families will get through this pandemic well," said Ulrike Ravens-Sieberer, the head of the study and research director of the children's psychiatric clinic at the university hospital. "However, we need better concepts to especially support and strengthen the mental and emotional health of children from at-risk families." she said.

Pet dogs play more when humans are watching, new research finds

SCIENCE

WASHINGTON: Pet dogs are far more likely to play with one another when their owner is present and being attentive, according to a new study, raising the intriguing possibility that they are putting on a show for our benefit.

That our canine companions are keenly attuned to the level of interest humans are showing them is well established, Lindsay Mehrkam, an animal behaviorist and lead author of the paper that appeared in Animal Cognition, told AFP Tuesday.

"But we weren't aware of any research that has really shown the effect of a human audience impacting species typical behavior, in this case dog-dog play."

Mehrkam oversaw an experiment involving 10 pairs of pet dogs that had lived together for at least six months.

The duos ordinarily engaged in play at least once a day, according to their owners.

The researchers videotaped the dog pairs under three conditions: where the owner was absent, where the owner was present but ignoring them, and where the owner was present and showering them with attention in the form of verbal praise and petting.

To ensure the experiment was robust, they ran each of the conditions three times over the course of several days.

"We found overall that the availability of owner attention did in fact facilitate play," said Mehrkam, with human attention increasing both the frequency and intensity of behaviors like bowing, hip nudges, wrestling, chasing, gentle bites and so on.

"It's really quite striking that dogs who have the chance to play with each other whenever they want to, nonetheless are much more likely to get up off their butts and start playing when a person is just paying attention to them," said co-author Clive Wynne of Arizona State University.

The researchers offered several ideas for what might be driving the effect.

One possibility is that an owner's attention might be a reward the dogs are seeking, like young children pleading with their parents to watch them as they show off what they can do.

The dogs might have also learned that playing among themselves leads to bigger prizes, such as the owner joining in the fun, or taking them outside.

Or, their owner might provide the dogs a sense of safety, because although animals use play to strengthen bonds, it can sometimes turn tense and lead to aggression. Having a person around is insurance against a fight.

Their human's presence could also be a trigger that enriches the general environment, perhaps causing a rush of the love hormone oxytocin, which leads to a more positive emotional state that in turn manifests as play.

CUPID AND THE CITY

A movie screening under the stars, a ride in a vintage car or a giant teddy at your doorstep... Here's how you can celebrate V-day in B'luru to make that grand declaration of love

A jewellery store is offering a ride in a 1933 Chevrolet Convertible while a restaurant is organising a grape stomping session (below) to usher in the season of love

VIDYA IYENGAR

THEY say no distance is too far for love. As Valentine's Day rolls around the corner, Bengalureans seem to be taking this adage quite seriously. Just ask Naadia Mirza Daga, who is in the middle of a busy few days as she figures out the logistics to curate experiences -- bizarre to some, unique to others – in the run-up to Feb. 14. The founder of Dottedi, a secret service surprise planner of sorts, is working on the double to pull off a movie screening under the stars near the airport. "Every minute detail has to be looked into. In a way, things have to be micro-managed. Like in this instance, we need to find a place where planes don't fly too low," she says.

For lovebirds in the city, shelling out anywhere between a couple of thousands to up to ₹1 lakh is worth the dough as long as it brings a smile on their partner's face. "The experiences can be quite clearly divided according to different age groups. While a more mature audience would opt for a romantic dinner with a meal cooked by a chef and a private movie screening, the 22-27 age group might opt for a picnic experience. The 18-24 age range might opt for a 6-foot teddy to greet and deliver a message to their loved one with customised message cards," says Daga.

Star chefs are also taking over home kitchens, offering carefully-curated gourmet meals. At The Ritz-Carlton, Bangalore, the concierge swings into action to put together personalised experiences to fulfill the wishes of their guests. "If a guest wants an experiential chef-led gourmet dining experience at their home, we can curate it upon request. We can offer a luxurious dining experience that caters to their preferences, at their home," says Sandeep Kalra, the executive chef.

Diamonds and jewellery have always been a hit on this day and taking the experience a notch higher is C Krishniah Chetty Group Of Jewellers. They are offering a ride in a 1933 Chevrolet Convertible, complete with a chauffeur dressed in Parisienne style. The ride around a quiet area will also include a photo op at a nearby park. "It's all about celebration and love with everything geared towards the theme – French eats, mocktails, and live singers," says Vinod Hayagriv, managing director.

After months of staying indoors, there's nothing better than an outdoor celebration. The Den in Whitefield is organising a drunch complete with a grape stomping session."It's been a hard one year and now we can see the light at the end of the tunnel. Ensuring strict precaution and following all guidelines, it's time to welcome spring. Grape stomping is just one way to usher in the season of love and life," says Vinesh Gupta, general manager of the property.

What's a love story without some warm fuzz? City photographers tell CE about some aww-worthy moments they've captured

Picture perfect

MONIKA MONALISA

Do you know who knows a couple's love story even more deeply than their best friends? Well, it's photographers and videographers. After all, they capture almost every stolen glance that passes between the couple. While most of this is done as part of the job, some stories make their way from camera lens to heart.

For wedding filmmaker Amal Roy, Melinda and Richard's story remains special. The couple met in the UK but decided to marry in Sri Lanka following Buddhist rituals. "The couple was then in their 40s. I usually record couple interviews. While Richard was comfortable speaking to the camera, Melinda had inhibitions. She revealed she has a condition where she was losing her speech and was conscious," recalls Roy. Melinda then changed her mind because she wanted to say something nice about her partner and have it stay on record. "It was an upaid gig but I took it up because it was the sweetest thing I have seen anyone do," says Roy.

Nikhil Unnikishnan, who has been running Myriad Hues for almost 10 years, shares a 2015 Goa wedding he captured for Vaishali Dinakaran and Ronnie Wechselberger, a mediaperson and German Formula 3 racer, respectively. The two met at a racing event in Europe but love blossomed in Goa, when Ronnie was in India and asked Vaishali out. "That's why they decided to have their wedding in Goa. There was no priest involved. It started with a speech by the maid of honour and best man, and then the couple kissed each other and ran to the sea," says Unnikrishnan.

When you get to witness such stories daily, it might be hard to select a favourite. Manvi Gandotra, founder of 1plus1studios, had the same issue. From childhood sweethearts to college lovers, she has seen it all. Sharing a story, she says sometimes, the simplest stories are the overlooked ones. Enter Shirley Lyster, a Tamilian Christian, and Abhishek Shetty, a Hindu from Udupi, who got married in November last year. "Shirley and Abhishek had a temple wedding in Udupi and Christian ceremony at St Patrick's Church. He even made an effort to make a speech in Tamil for Shirley," recalls Gandotra.

TANDAVASANA

(LORD SHIVA CYCLE OF LIFE DANCE POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'Tandava' means 'frantic dance' and 'asana' means 'pose'. In Hinduism, it refers to a vigorous dance that Lord Shiva, in his role as destroyer, performed in cemeteries. In the Tandava, Shiva appears in a 10-armed form with his consort, Devi. Some Hindu texts refer to Shiva's dances collectively as Tandava and call this dance the Rudra (Terrible) Tandava, performed when Shiva is angry. They also refer to the Nadanta, Shiva's joyful dance, as Ananda (Blissful) Tandava, which shows Shiva in his form as the cosmic dancer, Nataraja.

STEPS

- Stand upright with feet slightly apart.
- Bend and raise the left knee so that the thigh is horizontal. The foot must be pointing away from the body and slightly to the right of the right leg. Now, bend the right knee slightly.
- Place your left arm across the body in line with the left thigh, with palm and fingers facing down.
- Bend the right elbow so that the right palm is facing forward and the forearm is vertical.
- Make sure that your right elbow should be just behind the left wrist.
- Make the Jnana Mudra with the right hand and gaze towards the horizon.
- This is the final position.

Living with PCOS

Polycystic ovarian syndrome is a common condition affecting women of reproductive age in India. Here's all you should know about it

DR PRATHIMA REDDY

Polycystic ovarian syndrome (PCOS) is an imbalance in metabolism of androgens and estrogen. It is one of the most common endocrine disorders in women of reproductive age (15-44 years) in India. The incidence is 9–22 per cent in young women and more so among urban residents than rural ones. While the exact cause is unknown, it is known to run in families. It appears to be have an autosomal dominant mode of inheritance. A genetic predisposition is difficult to prove as there is not enough evidence. Obesity is also associated with PCOS and there is some evidence that women who are obese are at a higher risk of PCOS. Stress, diet, exercise and pollution may also play a role. Women with PCOS have abnormalities in the metabolism and production of certain hormones like androgens, estrogens and luteinising hormone. PCOS is associated with higher levels of insulin in the blood and insulin resistance.

SYMPTOMS

① Irregular menstrual cycles

Periods can occur once in two to six months as opposed to a regular cycle of 28-30 days. A small percentage may have no periods at all and will need medication to induce them. They may have prolonged heavy periods, scanty flow or irregular flow.

② Cosmetic problems

Girls face acne (20 per cent), hirsutism or increased hair growth (45– 70 per cent) and more rarely, male pattern hair loss.

③ Fertility issues

Women can present with difficulty in conceiving and an increase risk of miscarriages. Apart from this, they are also at risk of obesity, early diabetes (insulin resistance), high blood pressure, fatty liver, increased risk for cerebrovascular disease (strokes etc). The lesser known associations are eating disorders, depression, endometrial cancer and sleep disorders.

Treatment

There is no cure but the symptoms can be treated. The mainstay of treatment is lifestyle changes. Regular moderate exercise and weight loss has been shown to improve the symptoms. Even a five percent weight reduction will help relieve symptoms. Eating a healthy high fibre carbohydrate diet is recommended. Exercise and diet also lower the blood sugar levels and help to reduce the risk of diabetes. Smoking increases the androgen levels, so quitting smoking is important.

Drugs that are used in the treatment PCOS are the contraceptive pill to regularise periods and treat acne and hirsutism. Fertility pills may have to be used to induce ovulation and assist reproduction. Metformin is used in women with insulin resistance and can also assist in weight loss.

BUSTING MYTHS

- Women with PCOS cannot lose weight: Not entirely true. Weight loss may be harder for women with PCOS, but it's not impossible. Many women with PCOS have a lowered sensitivity to insulin, a hormone that regulates sugar in the blood. This is known as insulin resistance, which is a risk factor for type 2 diabetes and may make it difficult to lose weight, even if you are following a healthy lifestyle. Seeking the help of a dietician and endocrinologist can help.
- You have to have ovarian cysts to have PCOS: Wrong. It is a hormone imbalance which may or may not be associated with tiny follicles in the ovaries.
- Irregular periods are caused by PCOS: Not true. PCOS is one cause of an irregular menstrual cycle, but there are other reasons. A normal cycle ranges from 21–34 days. Factors such as stress, thyroid disorders or other endocrine conditions, fibroids, or extreme dieting can also lead to an irregular cycle.
- You cannot get pregnant if you have PCOS: Not entirely true. Many women with PCOS can conceive on their own or with help from fertility treatments. Lifestyle changes and a healthier diet can improve chances of conceiving.

Catching COPD early

DR. VIVEK CHOUDHURY

COPD (Chronic obstructive pulmonary disease) is a condition that is diagnosed traditionally in adults, although some research suggests that the signs of development of the disease can be noticed earlier in life as well. There is a possible relationship between the development of COPD in smokers and childhood pneumonia. Millions are diagnosed with COPD and many people have the condition without even realizing it. The symptoms are similar to other conditions. In some cases, when the COPD symptoms initially appear, people ignore them. Usually, COPD symptoms do not appear until the lung has been damaged significantly.

COPD is a progressive disease of the lungs and is one of the leading causes of death in the world. It is known to almost exclusively affect adults over the age of 40 years with smoking being the main cause. While COPD is not common among children, they are frequently affected by pneumonia. Children with pneumonia might be at an increased risk of lung disease in the future.

Symptoms

① Persistent coughing: Coughing helps protect the airways from the irritants like cigarette smoke that is being inhaled. It also helps in removing mucus from the breathing passages. While coughing is a normal response of the lungs to irritation, a chronic cough could indicate that the lungs are not functioning properly.

② Increased mucus: Irritants like tobacco smoke can cause the production of as much as thrice the normal amount of mucus.

③ Shortness of breath: When the lungs need to work harder than normal to inhale and exhale air, it causes a feeling of breathlessness or shortness of breath. Initially, the shortness of breath occurs during increased physical activity only.

④ Fatigue: People with COPD are likely to get tired more easily due to fatigue. It may also cause a loss of stamina or energy.

Relation between COPD and childhood pneumonia and asthma

In recent research, it was suggested that adult smokers who have had childhood pneumonia were at a higher risk of reduced lung function as well as disease of the airways. COPD is even more likely among adults who had both asthma and pneumonia during childhood. What this research suggests is that healthcare providers and parents have a chance of reducing the risk of COPD in the future to try and prevent cases of pneumonia in childhood, particularly if the child is asthmatic. Furthermore, patients who have had pneumonia in childhood can be counseled on the higher risk of COPD if they smoke. This is particularly relevant since many teenagers are known to start smoking in high school itself.

What can parents do?

Kids are not likely to show severe COPD symptoms. They might show early indications that could even be the sign of other common conditions. What you should know is that your child is at a higher risk of developing the disease later in life if they are frequently exposed to cigarette smoke. So, you need to try minimising their exposure to smokers. Even if you smoke, you should not do so near your children. You have to be particularly careful if your child has asthma or some other lung problems.

(The author is consultant, neonatology and paediatrics, Apollo Cradle and Children's Hospital)

Who is at an increased risk?

People who smoke or have had regular exposure to other irritants like second-hand smoke, workplace fumes, air pollution, and sawdust, or other aerosolised particles have a high risk for developing COPD. To determine if an individual has COPD, the doctor needs to perform a physical examination and order necessary tests. One of the tests would be lung function tests for measuring the breathing of the patient. The tests are also useful for ruling out other conditions. Diagnosis of COPD can only be done by a healthcare professional, but you have to watch out for early symptoms.

WAKE UP TO DEMENTIA RISKS

DR SHANTANU TANDON

With increasing age, sleeping issues become a serious concern. Apart from several other health problems, disturbances in sleeping pattern are directly linked with the risk of dementia. This is a chronic or persistent disorder of the mental processes caused by brain disease or injury and marked by memory disorders, personality changes, and impaired reasoning. The relationship between poor sleep and dementia is mostly observed to be two-way. While some researchers believe that inadequate sleep may put one at a greater risk of dementia, some others have noticed it to be the other way around -- dementia leads to poor sleep.

Light sleep disorders

Dementia is often closely linked with light sleep disorders, a type of sleep disorder that is referred to as rapid eye movement sleep behaviour disorder (RBD). This results in people moving or talking in their sleep. Dementia with Lewy Bodies (DLB), a kind of dementia that shares common symptoms with both Alzheimer's and Parkinson's is commonly associated with light sleep disorder. Studies reveal that light sleep disorders are early indicators of dementia with lewy bodies among male senior citizens. Other studies suggest that the damaged brain in case of dementia with lewy bodies may also result in light sleep disorders.

Sleep-wake cycle disorders

Alzheimer's disease is also linked with another kind of sleep disorder known as sleep-wake cycle disorders. The sleep-wake cycle is the 24-hour cycle that the body experiences every day that ensures that we are active during the day and sleepy at night. When there is a disruption in this cycle, issues like wakefulness at night, problems falling asleep and staying asleep or drowsiness and unusual napping during the day crop up. Such disturbances are associated with Alzheimer's as well as Parkinson's disease.

Studies suggest that the link between sleep-wake cycle disorder and Alzheimer's may be because of amyloid, the hallmark protein of Alzheimer's. Increased amyloid is mostly found among those with Alzheimer's and could be directly linked with poor sleep quality. It could also be associated with problems with storing memories while we sleep, highlighting that inadequate sleep may impact the body's ability to flush out toxic amyloid protein from the brain.

Sleep disordered breathing

Those with sleep disordered breathing are found to be more prone to cognitive decline and impairment and at a greater risk of developing dementia. Sleep disordered breathing occurs when one faces difficulty in breathing while sleeping, is referred to as sleep apnea and is commonly seen among obese older adults. Sleep disordered breathing may damage the brain due to the alterations in the oxygen and carbon dioxide levels in the blood. It can also alter the flow of blood to the brain. It has been thereby observed that improvement in sleeping pattern may lower the risk of dementia.

(The author is a senior ENT surgeon, airway and sleep apnea specialist, Sakra World Hospital)

Ways to improve sleep

- Sleep and get up at the same time: This helps in setting the body's internal clock and optimises quality of sleep. One must sleep when normally tired and wake up without an alarm clock.
- Do not sleep in: In case you want to make up for a late night, go for a daytime nap instead of sleeping in.
- Do not nap for long: Limit napping for only 15 to 20 minutes in the early noon.
- Control exposure to light: Expose yourself to bright sunlight in the morning, spend time outdoors during the daylight, let natural light seep indoors, avoid late-night bright screens within 1 to 2 hours of bedtime.
- Exercise during the day: The more one remains physically active during the day, the better sleep one gets at night.

SOULFUL

Can the mind be free of fear?

So, can the mind actually ever be free of fear? That seems to me to be one of the most primary, essential, questions which must be asked and which must be resolved, for any person who is at all serious. There are physical fears and psychological fears. The physical fears of pain, having had pain and the repetition of that pain in the future; the fears of old age, death, the fears of physical insecurity, the fears of uncertainties of tomorrow, the fears of not being able to be a great success, achieve and so on, not being somebody in this rather ugly world; the fears of destruction, the fears of loneliness, not being able to love or be loved, and so on; the conscious fears as well as the unconscious fears. Can the mind be free, totally, of all this? And if it cannot, then such a mind is incapable, because it is distorted, it is incapable of perception, of understanding, of having a mind that is completely silent, quiet; it is like a blind man seeking light and never finding light, and therefore inventing a 'light' of words, concepts, theories.

So how is a mind which is so heavily burdened with fear, and with all its conditioning, ever to be free of it? Or must we accept it as an inevitable thing of life? - and most of us do accept it, put up with it.

So, now what shall we do? How shall I, as a human being, and you as a human being, be rid of this fear, the total fear, not a particular fear, but the whole nature and structure of fear?

What is fear? Don't accept, if I may suggest, what the speaker is saying; the speaker has no authority whatsoever, he is not a teacher, he is not a guru; because if he is a teacher then you are the follower and if you are the follower you destroy yourself as well as the teacher. What we are trying to do is to find out what is truth. We are trying to go into this question of fear so completely that your mind is never afraid, therefore you are free of all dependence on another, inwardly, psychologically. So we are taking a journey together, not being led, someone ahead of you and you following in his footsteps. The beauty of freedom is that you don't leave a mark. The eagle in its flight does not leave a mark, only the scientist does. And in enquiring into this question of freedom there must be not only the scientific observation, but also the flight of the eagle that doesn't leave a mark at all; both are required; which is, both the verbal explanation and the non-verbal perception, bearing in mind that the description is never the described, the explanation is never that thing which is explained, that is, the word is never the thing.

So if all this is very clear then we can proceed to find out for ourselves - not through the speaker, not through his words, not through his ideas or thoughts - to find out for ourselves whether the mind can be completely free from fear.

‘Directing Shivarajkumar in Bhairathi Ranagal is my responsibility’

Mufti director Narthan tells CE that he may not helm the Hat-trick Hero’s 125th film, but he is certainly looking forward to directing him soon

A SHARADHAA

THAT Narthan would direct Shivarajkumar as the titular character in Bhairathi Ranagal was announced some time back, and it was considered a landmark project, being the Hat-trick hero’s 125th movie. However, going by the latest development, it seems that the Shivanna-Narthan collaboration may not be the Century Star 125th release.

According to the director, the Covid-19 pandemic changed the entire schedule in 2020. “Directing Shivanna is my responsibility, and he has also liked and approved the storyline. This was a project we had planned just after Mufti, but we couldn’t take off at that time. Shivanna got involved with other commitments, and I also got busy with my project with Yash, on which I have been working over the last year. The number doesn’t matter, and whether it is Shivanna’s 125th or not, I will be directing Bhairathi Ranagal for him immediately after I complete my present commitment with Yash,” says Narthan.

The one-film old director also adds that the story of Bhairathi Rangal is ready, and the team just has to go on the sets. “Secondly, the project requires a high budget, and I hope to raise the bar post my pan-India film with Yash,” he reveals.

Director Harsha to helm Shivanna’s 125th?

The Century Star and the director are teaming up for the fourth time

SHIVARAJKUMAR and Harsha are coming together for the fourth time, and speculations are rife that this might be the Century Star’s 125th film. Initially, it was confirmed that Nathan’s project Bhairathi Ranagal will be Shivanna’s landmark film. However, owing to other commitments and change of plans due to the pandemic, the director of Vajrakaya, Bhajarangi, and Bhajarangi 2 is said to have filled that place. The Century Star is currently shooting for his 123rd film, Shivappa, directed by Vijay Milton. And going by his calendar, his 124th project will be Telugu scriptwriter-turned-director Ram Dhulipudi’s project, followed with Harsha’s film. However, an official announcement is awaited from the star about the line-up of projects as well as the production details.

Suri’s Bad Manners to have Rachita Ram and Priyanka Kumar as female leads

Suri

CE FEATURES

DIRECTOR Suri has finalised the heroines for his Bad Manners, which stars Abishek Ambareesh. The Tagaru director has brought on board Rachita Ram and Priyanka Kumar to play the female lead roles. The latter, who has been a familiar face on the small screen, will be making a transition to the silver screen with this film. Bad Manners went on floors in mid-January. The team has completed one shooting schedule, which was a fight sequence choreographed by Ravi Varma that was shot entirely in Mandya. The film, which has dialogues written by Maasti, also features Tara and Sharath Lohithashwa in the cast.

Abishek Ambareesh

Working with Suri was on my wish list, and it has finally come true: Rachita Ram

After having worked with several filmmakers, Rachita Ram is now looking forward to getting associated with yet another successful director. The actor will be joining the second schedule of the shooting of Bad Manners, which will start on Feb. 18. “I have been a fan of Suri’s films. He is known to bring his sukkah (raw) signature style in his filmmaking. So it was a double excitement for me when I was approached to be a part of his project,” says the Dimple Queen. “I am eagerly looking forward to starting work under his direction, and also getting to know what makes him unique from the rest,” she adds. Rachita had appeared in a special song in Abishek’s debut, Amar, but this will be the first time she will be sharing screen space with him. She is currently working on Khadar Kumar’s Veeram, starring Prajwal Devaraj, and the Ajai Rao-starrer Rachchu I Love You, and she will now have to juggle her dates with Bad Manners.

Rachita Ram

Priyanka Kumar

I am excited about working under Suri’s guidance: Priyanka Kumar

For Priyanka Kumar, who is making her acting debut under Suri’s direction, the project brings excitement as well as an opportunity to learn many things. “I have heard that he is a pretty ‘cool’ director, and I am waiting to gain all the experience I can get while working in Bad Manners,” says the 19-year-old. “I had attended the audition in Mandya when they were shooting the first schedule. I was doubtful of being selected, but when I got a call saying I was finalised, I was on cloud nine,” she adds. Priyanka is not new to the camera, as she had started her acting stint on television just after she passed Class 10, and since then she has been juggling teleserials and education. “I started with Krishna Tulasi for Star Suvarna. I am now working in a Tamil serial, which is running on Star Vijay,” she says. “Meanwhile, I am also pursing my BBA in Mysuru.”
